Terms "Frontier on Rhine" Story as Lie

President In Denial Of Any Such Report

Sympathy With Arms Reduction

Asserts Foreign Policy Has Not Been Changed

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3.—(AP) President Roosevelt termed a "deliberate lie" today a statement that he had said the American frontier is on the Rhine.

The President, at a press conference at which he restated America's foreign policy informally, also described as a lie the report that he had said the American frontier was in France.

The chief executive declared some reports of his conference with the senate military committee last Tuesday had given an erroneous impression of this nation's policy. He added most of them had been manufactured by some legislative and newspaper-owner agitators and they were a deliberate misrepresentation of existing facts.

This nation's foreign policy, the President said, has not changed and would not be changed. He reiterated it to be:

1. Opposition to any entangling alliances.

2. Maintenance of world trade for all nations including ourselves.

3. We are in sympathy with each and every effort to reduce or limit armaments.

4. As a nation we are sympathetic with the peaceful maintenance of political, economic and social independence of all nations in the world.

Assails Agitators

That, the President emphasized, was very simple and there was absolutely nothing new in it.

Mr. Roosevelt said the people were beginning to realize that the things they have read from agitators of the legislative and newspaper owner variety in connection with the defense and foreign policy programs were pure bunk.

These agitators, he said, were appealing to the prejudices and fears of the people and were acting in an unAmerican way.

The President's lengthy discussion of foreign policy followed a question which suggested that some people were confused about what actually took place at his conference with the senate military committee and also his meeting yesterday with a house appropriations subcommittee on the army bill.

Mr. Roosevelt said his foreign policy had been completely covered in his message to congress.

He added the people were confronted by the simple fact that many people, some members of

Eight Firemen Trapped; Given Up For Dead

Buried In Ruins Of Building At Syracuse, N. Y.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Feb. 3.—Eight firemen, trapped in the collapse of a burning office building, were given up for dead today as rescue crews searched the still-smoking ruins in the heart of the city's business section.

"All hope has been abandoned," said Fire Chief Edward W. Gieselman. "The men are dead—they are buried under tons of wreckage."

Hours after the collapse of the final wall, occasional spurts of flame still came from the blackened ruins, hindering efforts to reach the entombed men.

Geiselman said it might be many hours before the bodies could be reached.

The missing men were trapped on the third floor shortly before dawn when the roof collapsed, dropping them into the basement under twisted wreckage. Collapsing walls later piled tons of debris on top of them.

One of Trapped Rescued

A ninth fireman, trapped in the wreckage with the eight still missing, was rescued an hour after the collapse and taken to a hospital, critically injured. Two others were treated in hospitals for minor injuries received earlier.

Final collapse of the walls was accompanied by a fresh burst of flame from the smoking wreckage. Firemen poured new streams of water on the blaze before resuming rescue operations.

Two hundred public works department employes were put to work in the ruins with picks and shovels as the city mobilized all its resources in a desperate attempt to reach the trapped men.

Before the collapse of the walls, rescue workers had reported hearing voices coming from the ruins and had expressed hope that some of the men were still alive.

Families of the victims had died in a fire station near the scene of the blaze, many of the women weeping and hysterical.

The structure where the fire occurred, known as the Collins block, is located near the heart of the business section. An adjoining building was undamaged, fire walls preventing spread of the flames.

The lone fireman rescued from the ruins was identified as William F. Moore.

Those still missing were listed as:

Lieut. David Lavine, Lieut. Albert G. Young, Lieut. Raymond E. Bauder, District Chief Thomas J. Dugan and Firemen John W. Agan, James E. Diamond, G. Michael Dixon and Frank Karlan.

The others injured were Firemen Warren Ostrander and Clayton Crandall.

Stream Liners To Missouri Pacific

ST. LOUIS, Feb. 3.—(AP)—Purchase of the Missouri Pacific Railroad of two streamlined trains and other equipment at a cost of $4,623,000 was authorized today by Federal Judge George H. Moore.

The streamlined trains, to cost $672,000 each, are intended for operation between St. Louis, Kansas City and Omaha at an average speed of 55 miles per hour. Their proposed 9-hour schedule compares with present running times of 11½ to 13½ hours.

Each streamliner will consist of a 2,000-horsepower Diesel locomotive, a mail-baggage car, a mail-storage express car, two coaches, a diner-cocktail lounge car and a parlor observation car.

Delivery of the two trains was expected to take place from six to eight months after the orders are placed.

In its application for the expenditure, the Missouri Pacific said the streamlined trains would reduce operating expenses, provide faster and more convenient service and increase the volume of rail travel between the three cities.

L. W. Baldwin, chief operating officer, testified at a hearing before Judge Moore that the new equipment would result in an increase of $175,000 annually in revenues and would effect an annual economy of $103,000 in operating expenditures.

Other equipment authorized two $99,000 Diesel road locomotives to be used between Union and Lincoln, Neb., five Diesel switch engines costing $63,000 to $85,000 each, and 1,000 flat-bottom coal cars.

Permission also was given to spend $430,000 for 125 boxcars and 25 coal cars for the Missouri-Illinois Railroad, a subsidy.

Offers Bill For Like Standards

Proposal To Take Care Of Negro Students

JEFFERSON CITY, Feb. 3—(AP)—A bill to place the state's Negro university on an equal scholastic standard with the University of Missouri—an alternative to admitting Negroes to the Columbia school—was introduced in the house today by Rep. John D. Taylor (D) Keytesville.

The United States supreme court ruled recently that the state should admit Lloyd Gaines, a St. Louis Negro, to the University of Missouri unless it could furnish him equal educational facilities elsewhere within the state.

Taylor's bill would require that the board of curators of Lincoln (Negro) university at Jefferson City, "recognize said institution so it shall afford to the Negro people of the state opportunities for training up to the standards furnished at the University of Missouri."

The measure would authorize the Lincoln university curators to purchase additional land and erect additional buildings to establish any new "school, department or course of instruction."

The new units of the university could be located any place in the state.

"Since the supreme court of the United States has recently decided," Taylor's bill said, "that the state has not made adequate provisions for training in institutions of higher education in the state of Missouri for Negro residents, and there are a number of persons of the Negro race making requests for higher education," therefore the powers and facilities of Lincoln university should be expanded.

Charges Grand Jury 'Robbed' Of Its Legality

Graves Offers Plea To State Highest Court

Asks Naming Of Commissioner

Plea Elaborated For Permanent Stop Order

JEFFERSON CITY, Feb. 3—(AP)—W. W. Graves, Jackson county prosecutor, charged in supreme court today that Circuit Judge Allen C. Southern "robbed" Kansas City's crime-busting grand jury of its legality through "clandestine conferences . . . with the purpose of prejudicing that grand jury."

Graves, who tied up the grand jury's deliberations with a supreme court stop order, laid four lengthy documents before the high court today elaborating on his plea for a permanent prohibition of the grand jury.

Asks For Commissioner

He asked the court to appoint a special commissioner to "determine the facts" in the feud which developed between Graves and Judge Southern after the latter practically excluded the prosecutor from the grand jury's deliberations.

Lengthy hearings before a commissioner probably would extend the supreme court litigation beyond March 15 when the criminal court term ends in Kansas City. The present grand jury cannot function beyond that date.

Says Southern Responsible

Graves countered that Judge Southern and not himself was responsible for the grand jury tie-up.

"When this battle was initiated at the outset by respondent (Judge Southern) when he disqualified public officials from the inception, for him to suggest now that those officials are responsible for the paralysis of the grand jury investigation is comparable only to the claim of Japan that that nation is fighting a defensive war in China," Graves charged.

Judge Southern, in a supreme court motion to lift the stop order against his grand jury earlier this week, contended that Graves had deliberately blocked it from its investigation of crime conditions in Kansas City.

Graves made reference today to "furtive communications" between Judge Southern and "persons unconnected with law enforcement in Jackson county." He brought Gov. Lloyd C. Stark into the case by inference when he declared:

"It is the common knowledge that the official who directed the intervention of the attorney general in Jackson county and the respondent (Judge Southern) are engaged in joint activities in this grand jury investigation."

Denies Casting Obstacles

Governor Stark, who first directed a crime clean-up in Kansas City last December, said recently he hoped the grand jury would look into the official record of Graves and declared the prosecutor's actions "justify his immediate removal from office."

The Jackson county prosecutor, who along with Attorney General Roy McKittrick virtually was banned from attending sessions of Judge Southern's grand jury, contended he had "cast no obstacles in the path of a free and independent grand jury investigation."

"When an official of this state venemously adverse (to Graves) requested the intervention of the attorney general," Graves said, "he (Graves) independently joined in that request . . . . to the end that the fullest investigation should be had."

Graves charged that the crime-hating judge was "guilty of a usurpation of jurisdiction and authority" because of "private communications with members of the grand jury with the purpose of prejudicing that grand jury." He said Southern "robbed the grand jury of its independence by clandestine conferences both before and after the grad jury was sworn."

The prosecutor protested that he had been denied a transcript of the conversation between Judge Southern and McKittrick which preceded the judge's request for a special prosecutor, but he made no formal demand that it be made public immediately. It is probable, however, that conference would be placed before a commissioner should the supreme court appoint one.

Speaks To BPW Club

Only Women In The Legislature Makes Address

Mrs. Gladys Berger Stewart, of Ava, Mo., the only woman in Missouri's general assembly, addressing the members of the Business and Profession Women's club and guests, at a dinner meeting at Kueck's Tavern Thursday night, stated that next Tuesday she will introduce a bill providing for a constitutional amendment making it possible for women to serve on juries in Missouri.

She expressed the opinion that such a service might be possible under the suffrage act, even though the constitution and Missouri law provide that jurors be male citizens, and stated she had often thought she would make a test case by asking for women jurors on a case, and then appealing if refused. As an attorney, Mrs. Stewart is familiar with courts and jury service, and as a woman and mother believes that in many cases a woman would be much more capable of serving than some men. Certainly, she said, they are emotional and sympathetic, but no more so than men, and clear thinking, intelligent women would be most capable jurors.

Mrs. Stewart spoke of women in public life, of the development of their inner resources, and mentioned outstanding women down through the ages, from the time of Eve on down to the present day, Mrs. Roosevelt, Anne Morrow Lindbergh, Amelia Earhart, and others who have made their place in history.

Mrs. Stewart also urged interest in the marriage health bill, which she stated is of vital interest to her and should be to the residents of this state.

She stated also that there are women serving in juries in 23 states, Alaska and the Dominion of Canada.

Mrs. Stewart was introduced by Mrs. Ruth Riley, chairman of the club's legislative committee.

Mrs. Riley also introduced Mrs. Judson Banks, of the Sedalia club, who spoke on the equal rights bill, which has been in committee several days, but never got beyond that. This bill, she said, is very simple in its reading, but has been opposed by women's organizations because it might provide some privileges for women, at the same time, it might take away some of the protective measures they now enjoy.

Prior to the talks two musical numbers were given by Miss Margaret Love, violinist and Miss Martha Redmond, pianist.

There were eighty-five guests at the dinner, those other than club members being, Senator Charles Ewen, Representative E. W. Couey, former U. S. Congressman John Palmer, father of Miss Hazel Palmer, club president, Mrs. Landon Welch, representing the Garden club, Mrs. Grace Young representing the Girl Scouts, Mrs. Emmett Hurley the Helen G. Steele Music club, Mrs. E. W. Brubaker, Sorosis, Elmer Finke, the Lions club, Mrs. Wm. Reed, P. T. A., L. L. Studer, Missouri Pacific Supervisors club, Miss Cora Chandler, Miss Hazl Lang, Miss Helen Brubaker, Mrs. R. Q. Henderson, Mrs. Rhinehart, Miss Frances Stanley, Miss Helen Donnelly, Miss Geneevee Tanksley, Mrs. J. C. Connor, Mrs. I. D. Turner, Mrs. Wilson, Mrs. Henry C. Salveter, Miss Ginder, Mrs. Ida Harriman.

Mrs. Shirley Wagner, chairman of the membership committee introduced three new members, Mrs. W. J. Menefee, Mrs. Maude Jabas and Miss Virginia Rose.

Club singing was led by Miss Juanita Young and Miss Susan Hurlbut, with Miss Thelma Young at the piano.

Miss Palmer announced that the February social meeting would be on Thursday, February 16, at her home, with the February birthday group in charge.

The March meeting will be an "On to Kansas City" program, with plans made and delegates elected for the national convention, which will be in Kansas City in July.

House Votes To Continue The Dies Inquiry

Accusation Of Unfairness In Hour's Debate

Chairman Likely Be Re-named

No Funds Are Provided By Resolution

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3. — The house voted overwhelmingly today to continue for another year an investigation of un-American activities and propaganda.

That action brought to an end, at least for the time being, one of the bitterest controversies of the new congress.

Opponents had leveled accusations of unfairness and un-Americanism at the committee which handled the inquiry last year under the chairmanship of Rep. Dies (D-Tex).

Dies himself, just before the final vote, asserted that from the start 'a well-organized attempt" had been made to discredit the committee by ridicule.

The resolution re-establishing the committee until Jan. 3, 1940, does not require action by the senate or the President's signature.

Would Be Reappointed

Speaker Bankhead already has announced his intention to reappoint Dies chairman and name to the committee again the members who served in the last congress. There is one vacancy.

At the outset, Rep. Cook (D-Mich) tried to block the resolution with a parliamentary objection, which immediately was tossed aside.

The house had an hour to debate the measure, since Rep. Smith (D-Wash blocked an attempt to double the time on grounds all house members already knew how they were going to vote.

The resolution provides no funds for a further inquiry, but Chairman Warren (D-NC) obtained permission for the accounts committee to hold afternoon sessions next week to discuss a measure to supply more funds.

Rep. Dies (D-Tex) who is scheduled to be reappointed chairman of the investigating body, has asked for $150,000 but the house is expected to compromise on $100,000.

Arthur L. Johnson of the General Welfare Association told a house committee that his group had the 'sanest" pension system yet advocated. He proposed a 2 per cent income tax to finance pensions for the aged of from $30 to $60 a month.

Speaker Bankhead told newspapermen the house probably would spend three days next week considering the regular appropriation bill for independent offices of the government.

Rep. Boland (D-Pa) majority whip, said legislation calling for reciprocal taxation of federal and state salaries might also be on the program.

In discussion of a proposed farm program that involved government price fixing, Senator Norris (Ind-Neb), complained it would require an army of employes" for enforcement.

Before the house debate on renewal of the un-American committee, Dies said witnesses who had appeared before the committee had complained to him that justice department agents had intimidated them.

"Unless this practice stops," the aggressive Texan said, he will bring the complaints into the open and name the witnesses who said they had been investigated."

Modifying Of Neutrality Act A Probability

Clark Insistent On Disclosures Of Testimony

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3—(AP)—President Roosevelt's reported determination to aid the European democracies revived talk on Capitol Hill today that the administration soon might try to modify or repeal the neutrality act.

The subject was discussed informally by influential congressmen as the senate military committee, meeting in a closed session, debated whether to make public the record of its inquiry into the projected sale of American-made warplanes to France.

Senator Clark (D-Mo) appeared to have the support of a majority of the committeemen in his demand for disclosing all testimony which involved no military secrets.

Because the neutrality act prohibits shipping war materials to belligerents, Senator Logan (D-Ky) said it seemed reasonable to assume if the administration were committed to helping the democracies, it would want to change the law before any conflict broke out.

"I think we ought to repeal the neutrality law," declared Logan, who heard the president outline his views on foreign policies Tuesday at a conference with the senate military committee.

"Then the president would have a free hand in shaping our foreign policy, as the constitution provides," he added.

Senator Nye (R-ND), an advocate of mandatory neutrality, agreed with Logan that events appeared to be moving toward a showdown.

"The president has practically served notice that the neutrality law is a dead letter," said Nye, who also attended the white house meeting.

Despite the continuing senate furore over Mr. Roosevelt's endorsement of the French plane transaction, house members dealing with the defense program remained unruffled.

Several members of the house military committee said they had known for some time of the proposed sale by private manufacturers but considered it the logical thing to do.

Rep. Harter (D-Ohio) said he garded the excitement of some senators over the proposition as a tempest in a teapot.

Rep. Snyder (D-Pa.) chairman of the military appropriations subcommittee, and his subcommittee conferred with Mr. Roosevelt yesterday. Members said only technical phases of the $552,000,000 defense program were taken up, but it was learned later the whole world armament situation was discussed.

The nine Republican members of the house foreign affairs committee issued a statement late yesterday protesting against secrecy in the French plane sales.

"We have no objection," they said, "to the sale of airplanes produced in this country to any nation with which we have diplomatic relations, but we insist that such secret and unneutral acts entangle us in foreign conflicts and endanger the peace of America."

Explanation Asked Of Italy Over Attacks

Note Sent To Minister Over Press Comment

Were Directed At Roosevelt

Intense Hostile Campaign Is Being Waged

ROME, Feb. 3.—(AP)—The United States embassy today asked the Italian government for an explanation of bitter personal attacks on President Roosevelt published in the Fascist Press.

The attacks were part of an intense hostile press campaign provoked by versions of the President's meeting Tuesday with a senate committee which quoted him as saying that the frontiers of the United States were in France.

(The President today said reports which quoted him as saying either that America's frontiers were in France or were on the Rhine were lies.)

It was learned that United States Ambassador William Phillips sent a note to Count Galeazzo Ciano, Italian foreign minister, calling his attention to press attacks on the President and requesting an explanation.

It also was disclosed that a similar step had been taken previously in an unofficial manner following publication of similar personalities involving the President.

"Since Roosevelt wants to push his offensive into the heart of Europe up to the Rhine and Alps," Gayda wrote in Il Giornale D'Italia, "it is natural that the defense to counter-balance it be extended up to the Rio Grande as well as to the line of the Panama Canal which has been developed by the United States as one of its bases for maneuvers between the Atlantic and Pacific."

(Gayda wrote before news of the President's denial reached Europe.)

The Fascist editor declared that Roosevelt had "imposed the necessity on Italy, Germany and Japan and other nations to close their ranks still further and organize their defense in time with greater width of vision and method."

Sharp Personal Thrusts

Some newspapers published sharply personal attacks on the President.

It was learned reliably that the United States embassy, after previous attacks of this character, unofficially had suggested to Italian officials that such indulgence in personalities hardly was conductive to promotion of friendly relations between the two countries.

The Italians replied that the attacks were not sponsored by the government.

A typical headline was the Rome newspaper Il Piccolo's: "The incendiary Roosevelt in the service of the Ghetto."

Premier Mussolini's own newspaper, Il Popolo D'Italia in Milan, called the President's reported remark that America's frontier was in France an "extremely provocative gesture." (Such a remark was attributed to the President in reports reaching Europe of a meeting Tuesday with the senate military affairs committee.)

Il Telegrafo of Leghorn, foreign minister Count Galeazzo Ciano's newspaper, called Roosevelt "Public Enemy No. 1 of Peace." It charged him with "interference in affairs of others and a tendency to incite France to provoke Germany with the purpose of aggravating the situation."

"Roosevelt in America, (Winston) Churchill in England and (Leon) Blum in France," Il Telegrafo said, "exponents of masonry, Jewish banks and Social-Communism, are heading the movement for war.

"None of these wretches thinks that Totalitarian countries, if they do not seek war, fear it. And they also may be pushed into it by provocation and hostile threats."

Rounding Up Enemies Of Regime Of Gen. Franco

By LARRY ALLEN

BARCELONA, Feb. 3.—(AP)—The insurgent military intelligence service, with Barcelona's famed "Fifth Column" supplying information for arrests, is rapidly rounding up the enemies of the Franco regime.

The "Fifth Column" is composed of insurgent sympathizers who, during the two and a half years of war, have risked their lives in espionage activities under the nose of the government.

Members of their column are expected to have a decisive voice in determining which "enemies of Spain" will be condemned to death.

The number of former government supporters now under arrest was not available today, but it was believed likely that scores would be executed within the next few weeks.

Insurgent police last night disclosed the arrest of several persons charged with "having stained their hands with the blood of their brothers."

Members of the "Fifth Column" left their secret retreats in Barcelona after the entry of Generalissimo Francisco Franco's troops last week. Since then they have been formally recognized for their services and their organization legalized in a ceremony at the Palace of Justice.

The vast system of espionage used by the "Fifth Column" to inform Franco of government plans was credited with having speeded the capture of Barcelona.

The members worked day and night at the risk of their lives. Many gained valuable information through employes in government offices and smuggled the data to the insurgents.

"Fifth Column" units also are operating in Madrid and Valencia.

Barcelona, now patrolled by civil guards and regular police instead of troops, is rapidly returning to normal.

The city's finances are getting into shape. Thousands are exchanging government money for insurgent pesetas. Others are obtaining bank loans and credits, throwing large amounts of money into circulation. Hundreds of shops and cafes have reopened.

The food situation also is improving.

The authorities are rushing plans to reopen textile and other factories to provide employment as soon as possible.

More Money Is Asked For The State University

JEFFERSON CITY, Feb. 3.—(AP)—Officials of the University of Missouri asked the house today for more money so the school can maintain itself "in the best position in its history."

The university president, Dr. Frederick A. Middlebush, urged the house appropriations committee to set up $4,046,443 for 1939-40. The school had $3,963,155 in 1937-38.

"Our university stands at the close of its 100th year in the best position in its history to serve the people of Missouri," Mr. Middlebush told the committee, "but we do need some increased funds for more teachers and more equipment to care for our greatly increased number of students."

Enrollment last September was 5,300, the highest in history. Dr. Middlebush asked for $2,300,000 for salaries. The university salary appropriation the past two years was $2,075,000.

The five State Teachers Colleges asked for about $2,500,000 for the two-year period, an increase of about 10 per cent when building appropriations of the last biennium are discounted. President W. W. Parker of the Southeast Missouri Teachers College at Cape Girardeau, spokesman for the five schools, said all of them had enrollment increases of about 30 per cent.

The 1939-40 requests of the teachers colleges were: Springfield, $555,000; Cape Girardeau, $495,550; Maryville, $490,000; Kirksville, $466,746; and Warrensburg, $540,000.

President William R. Chedsey of the Rolla School of Mines asked for $745,000 for 1939-40, an increase of $110,000.

A senate committee delayed until Monday further consideration of three social security amendments urged by Gov. Lloyd C. Stark to assure continued government participation in the state's old age pension program. Stark told the legislature last week he was certain Missouri would be dropped permanently from the governments 50-50 participation unless the social security law amendments were enacted to make "need" a primary pension requirement.

The committee delayed action on the social security so that Ed McDonald, Kansas City, regional social security director, could meet with it next week.

Harry Can Write One— If He Will

At 79, full of years and recollections, Harry Daugherty says he is going to write one more book.

The attorney general of the Harding administration, now spending his declining years oscillating between Florida and Columbus, O., has confided to Michael Desmond, Columbus Citizen reporter, that he is going to make public a lot of "sacred but important secrets" in the book on which he is now working.

* * *

A completely candid book on the Harding administration by an insider like Daugherty would be illuminating to those who lived through it, and a rich source for the historian. Exactly how candid Mr. Daugherty is going to be remains to be seen.

Harding is gone, and Coolidge, and Tom Walsh and Jess Smith and nearly all of the others. Harding's papers have never been published, and probably never will be. There is a rumor that they were all destroyed by Mrs. Harding before her death. In fact, the mortality of documents concerned with the "normalcy period" of American history has been pretty high. Thus Mr. Daugherty can undoubtedly throw unique light on it if he chooses.

In the meantime, Daugherty publicly reminisced to Desmond for the first time in many years of his retirement. Asked to comment on the plan to change the Supreme Court, Daugherty replied: . . . .

"The Supreme Court is being made over again. Well, I made it over myself. Neither Mr. Harding nor Mr. Coolidge ever refused to send in the name of the man I recommended." Sandford, Sutherland, Taft and Butler were specified.

* * *

The best thing about men like Harry Daugherty is that you know where they stand. "I was a standpatter," affirms Daugherty. "A corporation lawyer. Still am. I never change."

So the public may await whatever sensational revelations Harry Daugherty may choose to make as a standpatter and a corporation lawyer who never changes. Private advice to the public: "Don't hold your breath."

Cities As Real Estate Dealers

Not only the federal government, states, and counties have found themselves in possession of large amounts of land as the result of tax foreclosures. Cities, too, have had to face this problem.

Every bit of land taken over by the city for taxes is a double loss. First, the city loses the direct tax revenue from the property. But it also loses indirectly because large amounts of tax-foreclosed land depress all property values.

Thus many cities have established real estate departments. Portland, Ore.; Milwaukee, Wis.; Sacramento, Calif.; Boston, Mass.; Buffalo, N. Y., and Des Moines, Ia. are among the leaders.

What they have accomplished has been summed up by the Municipal Finance Officers' Association. Portland has sold 4,150 lots and parcels of land for $2,100,000 and collected $400,000 in back taxes. Sacramento has sold 800 pieces of property for $500,000. Vero Beach, Calif., sells lots at especially low prices to those who will build houses on them. And so on.

The original foreclosures were a calamity. Those cities that have the wit to make the best of it and turn land back to productive use are showing brains and initiative.

Twenty-seven Times Over

The oversubscription of the offering by the U. S. Treasury of $100,000,000 in U. S. Housing Authority 1⅜ per cent five-year notes is an impressive demonstration. It represents the highest rate of oversubscription in history for any treasury issue.

For every $1,000 in notes offered, $27,000 in subscriptions was offered. The previous high point was 18½ times over—in 1932 for an issue of treasury notes.

At least two things are indicated by this tremendous demonstration. First, there is no lack of faith in government loans, in contrast with Germany, where the latest government loan was reported 30 per cent undersubscribed (one of the things leading to the downfall of Schacht), here is a tremendous scramble for low-rate government securities, even at a time when future tax exemption is precarious.

Secondly, it indicates a tremendous volume of stored-up capital awaiting investment. Whenever evidences of progress, recovery of "confidence" or whatever is needed to release it appears, there is plainly a considerable flood if capital to bear us onward. Whatever will tend to releasing that flood is certainly to be encouraged.

These are the days when one likes to recall that a horse would always start on a cold morning.

By the scientific handling of refuse collected, dustbins of Birmingham, England, now yield the city an income of $300,000 annually.

Dizzy Dean signing his contract without any quibbling becomes increasingly hard to understand. He threw away $10,000 worth of publicity, just to be different.

Sir Francis Drake thought so little of the Spanish Armada that he refused to stop a game of bowling, at Plymouth, to lead his ships out to attack it in 1588.

The design of the new Jefferson nickels is not to be changed, and for the benefit of those who have been hoarding them it is announced they are worth—just another cup of coffee.

Water supplies of more than 4,000 American cities now are chlorinated. This practice has reduced the annual typhoid fever death rate from 25 to 4 per 100,000 of population.

A national authority reports that unbalanced diet is responsible for many auto accidents. A diet—let's say of one hamburger with onions and four slugs of Old Busthead.

• The Daily Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Drew Pearson and Robert S. Allen

MERRY GO ROUND

WASHINGTON — The Judge Manton disclosures are only the prelude to a scandal which is going to shake the New York City federal judiciary and the Democratic Party like an earthquake. It promises to make the famous Seabury investigation seem as mild as dishwater.

The scandal involves New York mortgage companies and the receivers appointed when they went into bankrupty during the depression. New York judges appointed their pals as receivers, and their pals, in turn, proceeded to charge fancy fees at the expense of the mortgage bondholders. For instance, they would pay ten dollars for a ton of coal and charge up twenty dollars.

Young John Amen, Brooklyn special prosecutor and a Democrat, has run into this scandal and is pushing his investigation to the limit. The probe probably means death to Democratic rule in New York.

Social Security Fight

Behind those secret conferences of Secretary Morgenthau and a group of prominent economists is a sharp inner circle scrap over liberalization of the old-age pension provisions of the Social Security Act.

Chairman Arthur J. Altmeyer of the Social Security Board insists that tany extension of benefits be on a strictly pay-as-you go basis; that is, the aged should contribute their share before they get pensions.

Others oppose this policy on the ground that it means taking huge sums annually out of the national buying power and piling them up in the Treasury as idle and useless reserves. They argue that Social Security funds should be paid out to the people they were intended to aid. Otherwise, they warn, the various old-age pension movements will force some drastic inflationary scheme through Congress.

Backing Altmeyer in his tight-fisted stand are Dr. Jacob Viner, Canadian-born economics professor of the University of Chicago; and Dr. Winfield Riefler, faculty member of the Institute for Advanced Study. Both are strong anti-spenders.

As a member of Morgenthau's private brain trust, Viner advised against a new spending program after the 1937 slump. arguing that conditions would right themselves in the spring. When his airy predictions failed to materialize, he was shelved. But recently he has been recalled into consultation.

This probably will be the most important old-age pension question to be ironed out by Congress.

Congressmen Kennedy

Scene: The telephone switchboard at the Capitol.

Voices: The Incoming Call, and the Capital Operator.

"Give me Congressman Kennedy, please."

"Which Congressman Kennedy, please?"

"Congressman Kennedy of New York."

"Which Congressman Kennedy of New York, please?"

"Congressman M. J. Kennedy."

"Which Mr. M. J. Kennedy?"

"The one from New York City."

"They are both from New York City."

Note—Two Manhattan districts are represented by Martin J. Kennedy and by Michael J. Kennedy, both Democrats.

AFL Mess

There was a very good reason why AFL moguls so abruptly ceased jubilating over the cut-throat row in the CIO United Auto Workers. A fight just as vicious has broken out in Detroit between two of their own unions—the United Brewery Workers, an industrial union, and the Teamsters, a craft organization.

Unlike the UAW row, which has not affected the auto industry, this AFL vendetta has shut down the leading breweries in Detroit and threatens to tie up hauling and trucking throughout Michigan.

Jurisdictional wars between the Brewery Workers and Teamsters are an old story. They have been at it for years. The present explosion arose out of a raid by the Teamsters on the union brewery drivers. When the Brewery Workers fought back by going into the courts, the Teamsters called a strike tying up the breweries in Detroit.

Caught in the middle of this family fight are the breweries, who have had contracts with the Brewery Workers for years and whose present contract still has two years to run. But even though no question of wages or hours is involved, their plants have had to shut down.

Note—Asked what he was going to do about it, AFL President William Green replied through his publicity agent, "We are keeping a strict hands-off attitude. We are taking no part in this affair."

GOP Martin

Representative Joe Martin is telling colleagues that since his election as Republican Floor Leader he feels "like a bird in a gilded cage."

One of the rewards that went with his new job is an ornate office suite expensively furnished with a thick carpet, rich cherry furniture. a glittering 300-pound glass chandelier and a special elevator just outside the door.

Most Congressmen would be delighted with this ritzy layout, but not Joe. A newspaperman by profession and a bachelor by preference, he has simple tastes, dislikes swank. He would much prefer his old plain and rugless office, but the ornate suite goes with his job and there is nothing he can do about it.

"I'm lost in the place," laments Joe,, "and I get lonesome, too. It isn't the kind of a place folks drop in to chin for a while. It scares them, it's too fancy."

Note—Actually Martin is in no danger of being isolated. The GOP has not had as popular a leader since the late Nick Longworth.

Merry-Go-Round

Chief job of "Wild Bill" Lyons, administrative assistant to Postmaster General Jim Farley, is pasting up Farley's newspaper clippings. Says he: "Boys' we don't care what you write about us, just so you spell our names right." . . . Dr. Paul deKruif, famed medical author, is writing a book on unemployment relief and the WPA . . . Dean Chris L. F. D. R. Critics Say Policy Will Lead U. S. To War

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3—(AP)—Critics of President Roosevelt's foreign policy carried to the country last night their fight against what they called "secret and unneutral acts" likely to lead the United States into war against totalitarian countries.

Nine Republicans on the House Foreign Affairs Committee issued a manifesto declaring that the people, "irrespective of party, are opposed to being committed to any war program through secret diplomacy."

The statement was the latest development in a furious argument which began when it became known the president had approved the sale of privately manufactured American warplanes to France as part of a definite policy of helping the Democratic states of Europe to arm.

Other Republicans and some Democrats criticized the president, while administration supporters approved his acts. Secretary of the Interior Ickes declared today there was no danger of the United States going into a foreign war.

Ridiculing former President Herbert Hoover's statement Wednesday night that the Roosevelt foreign policy raised dangers of war, Ickes said:

"I know of no one in any responsible administrative post who is not ardently for peace for this country. We have to make allowances for Mr. Hoover. He is a disappointed, broken-hearted man and naturally can't find anything except to criticize."

• SERIAL STORY

NO TIME TO MARRY

BY ELINORE COWAN STONE

COPYRIGHT, 1939, NEA SERVICE, INC.

Yesterday: Janet finds that Tim Benton's generosity has saved her pride. After long absence Barney returns; he and Janet are caught in a fog, forced to sleep in his car.

CHAPTER XVIII

ONCE Barney roused long enough to pat her arm and murmur a drowsy apology; then he promptly dropped off again.

Janet did not wake him until a brisk wind scattered the fog and made driving possible. It was almost daylight when they rode into town.

"If anyone sees us," Janet told him as they stopped before the Breckenridge, "you may have to make an honest woman of me."

"You can't scare me. Aunt Mary doesn't own a shotgun," Barney grinned. Then his grin twisted, and his eyes held hers almost defiantly. "Of course this wouldn't make any difference to you," he blurted out, "but I can think of a lot of things I'd hate worse . . . Well, I guess you know your way in. I've got to run."

Before Janet could find words he had driven away . . . Of course it was just some more of Barney's nonsense. Nevertheless, she could not forget the way his eyes had searched hers.

Aunt Mary's door was closed when Janet stepped into the hall outside. Apparently she had gone to sleep and slept the night through. Janet never knew why she opened the door and peeped inside. She did not understand at once, either, what it was about the appearance of Aunt Mary's room that struck chill to her heart, even before she had opened the door wide enough to see more than the small area of rug at the head of the bed.

Of course the bed lamp was burning; but Aunt Mary often slept with a light.

Later, Janet remembered that it was the book on the floor. It was sprawled open, face downwards, with the leaves bent and crumpled. Aunt Mary, who cherished her books as she cherished her next of kin, could never have left a book lying like that. . . . Yet she had.

* * *

A COLD blast of air greeted Janet as she went in.

The bed was empty. There was only a neat dent in the pillow, a slight disarrangement of the covers to indicate that it had been occupied.

Over by the front windows, under the wind-billowed curtains, lay Aunt Mary in a crumpled heap on the floor. She must have risen from bed at the sound of some fog-bound motor horn, hoping, perhaps, that it was Barney's—of course this was only Janet's guess—dropped her cherished book heedlessly on the rug in her haste, and hurrying to the window, slipped and fallen on the polished floor.

She was unconscious when Janet reached her. She remained unconscious for hours after she was taken to the hospital. The resident physician whom Janet talked to first said she had a broken hip and a dangerous chill. Apparently she had lain for hours in her thin nightgown under those wind-blown curtains.

Janet tried desperately to get a message to Cynthia at Nice. But evidently Cynthia and Timothy Benton had moved on since the last card had come, and her message missed them. It was six weeks before Janet actually caught up with them in Cairo, and by that time it was too late.

When she tried to get Barney at the office of his newspaper, she was told by a crisp secretarial voice that McKnight was out of town . . . No, the office couldn't say where he was to be found. When Janet tried his home telephone later, it was silent. For the first time Janet realized how much she had come to depend on Barney.

* * *

LANGE called her up—first at the apartment, as the switchboard girl told her later, and finally at the hospital. By that time Aunt Mary's chill had developed into pleurisy—overnight it was pneumonia. The surgeon who set her hip told Janet that she would probably never walk again.

Janet was at the hospital when Lance's call came.

"Janet," Lance said, "I—I'm sorry than I can tell you. Isn't there something I can do?"

"I'm afraid not, Lance. Only the doctor is much use," Janet said wearily—quite as if he were any of a hundred others who had called to ask the same question.

"It won't hurt like this forever, Jan," Cynthia had said. "I know." And unbelievably, Cynthia had been right.

So many people wanted to help that Janet—especially after the first week—found it hard to understand why Barney was not among them.

Thanksgiving came and went. Christmas was at hand . . . Aunt Mary had always been as excited as a child about Christmas. She had passed the pneumonia crisis safely, to the complete amazement of her doctors, but continued to suffer a great deal from her hip.

It was the day Cynthia's radiogram came from Cairo that Janet, firmly ejected from Aunt Mary's room by the nurse, went out for a walk in the park.

ON the bench from which you could see the white house, nestling, cameo-like, against the bare winter hillside, Janet found the old gentleman she had talked with there before, a bag of peanuts on the bench beside him, an opened newspaper on his knee.

One squirrel was on his shoulder, and another scrambled up his left leg. Another peered from a branch overhead, his lower jaw quivering at the seductive crackling of the paper bag. The old gentleman had aged noticeably; but he glanced up with a friendly twinkle as Janet approached.

"You must have been missing your daily dozen, young lady," he said, making room for her. "You don't look quite up to snuff."

Janet explained simply, "I'm not. My aunt—the only mother I remember—has been very ill for over a month. Perhaps you read about her accident—Mrs. Mary Cantrell? It was in the papers."

"Mrs. Mary Cantrell?" He looked startled. "Then—are you Miss Janet Dwight?"

He cracked several nuts, scanning her face covertly as he did so.

"Miss Dwight," he said finally, "I find myself in the unpleasant predicament of most people who talk too much . . . You see, I do read the society gossip. Used to read it aloud to my wife before she—went on; and got the habit . . . I remember seeing something about your breaking your engagement . . . I hope—of course if I'd known who you were, I'd have kept my fool mouth shut that day."

"Oh, please," Janet cried quickly; "that was something I had a right to know . . . Things like that happen to be really important to me. When I broke my engagement, that was one of the reasons—but only one . . . Anyhow, all that doesn't seem to matter now," she finished.

"That's fine!" he said.

As if glad to change the subject, he went on, tapping the newspaper on his knee, "There's a good deal in the news besides the doings of society these days. This now. Here's a young man who's done something no one else in this town's ever had the nerve to try."

As Janet glanced down, phrases leaped out at her from the page: "Beginning Monday" . . . "Series of articles" . . . "dramatic exposure" . . . "graft ring" . . . "exclusive story, by—"

"Why!" she cried. "But I know him well!"

So Barney was in town. He must be if his story had broken . . . And he hadn't even taken the trouble to call her up.

Over Thousand Persons See Glove Finals

1939 Champions Are Picked Thursday Night

Amateurs Now Go To Kansas City Tournament

The third annual Central Missouri Golden Glove tournament, sponsored by the Sedalia Democrat-Capital newspapers, came to a close in a flash of glory before a roaring crowd estimated at more than 1,000 fans. Thirteen open champions and nine novice champions were made.

The teams will represent Central Missouri in the Tournament of Champions at Kansas City, which tournament is sponsored by the Kansas City Star and will be held on February 6, 7 and 10.

By virtue of no opposition, Denver "Buck" Miller was declared champion in the 112-pound class, white division and Henry Harker, champion of the 126 pound class, colored division.

C. Everett, 175, Kemper Military Academy was knocked out by Earl Hallihan, 175, Sedalia after one minute and 37 seconds of the second round. Hallihan led with a left hand most of the first round and was successful in landing a hard one to end the fighting in the second round.

In the heavyweight division, Mike Hughes, Sedalia, came back to win a decision in three rounds after being nearly beaten in the first round by Albert McAlear, Marshall, who stood well over six feet and scaled around the 225 mark. McAlear was effective with his long range punches in the first round but Hughes counteracted by working on the abdomen. Hughes flung several punches to the jaw of McAlear in the third round.

Cecil Landers, 118, Sedalia, decisioned Dean Murray, 118, Sedalia, in three fast rounds. These boys were evenly matched with Landers having a slight edge.

Aggie McMillian fighting in the 160-pound class for Kemper Military Academy technically knocked out Bill Seabaugh, also of Kemper after one minute 58 seconds of the first round, after Seabaugh had taken a count of eight earlier in the round.

Alvin "Sonny" Cole, 147, Sedalia, won over Buddy Matthews by default at the beginning of the second round.

James Baylor, colored, 160, was awarded a close decision over Albert Hanna, 160, Lexington in three exciting rounds. Both gave as well as received several hard wallops in the first round. Baylor connected with a long, hard right that landed flush on Hanna's jaw late in the second stanza. During the third round Baylor was tiring quickly but was able to ward off any attack by his opponent.

Le Roy Bouton and Virgil Landers, both of Sedalia, fought a hard battle with Bouton carrying off the decision in three rounds. Landers went down for a count of one in the first. The second round was about even with both landing several good punches. Bouton had a slight edge in the third by using his long reach to advantage.

Mark Peek, 135, Lexington, technically knocked out Tom Craig after 54 seconds of the third round. The round was started fast with Craig landing long lefts and rights to the head. Peek opened up in the second and sent Craig to the canvas for a one count, and then in quick succession he twice knocked him down for counts of eight as the bell sounded, ending the round. The final touch was administered by Peek after 54 seconds of the final stanza.

Walter Martin, Sedalia, forfeited his bout to Sam Tuck, Houstonia, in the 147-pound division because of a bad cut over one of his eyes he received Monday night.

Pete Stuart administered a shellacking to his brother, Earl in the 135-pound class in three rounds. They had boxed together while training for the finals and put up a good evenly matched fight.

Sam Johnson, 135, Lexington, carried off the decision from Will Whitley, Sedalia after three rounds Johnson connected with numerous rights to Whitley's side. Whitley being fast, landed hard rights to Johnson and was able to duck his haymakers.

Bud Martin made quick work of his opponent, Sam Tuck, in the 147-pound division by winning by a technical knock-out in one minute and 16 seconds of the first round. Tuck hit the floor for a nine count before taking a swift right for the finish.

Eli Castro and Charles Shepherd, both of Kansas City, fought a three round exhibition. They showed good form and were good boxers. There was no decision awarded.

Chester Ellis and Beebe Rich, also of Kansas City, put on the gloves for three furious stanzas Rich is a three time winner of the tournament of champions in Kansas City while Ellis is acclaimed one of the best athletes to come from Haskell Institute at Lawrence, Kansas. This being an exhibition no decision was given.

Swede Olsen and "Battling" Harms, both of Sedalia fighting "Skeeterweight" class received the applause of the crowd at their match ended in a draw. It was an exhibition.

Time out was taken to bring the champions into the ring and present them with trunks, jackets and trophies. At this time Lawrence Englund was awarded the Chamber of Commerce trophy, for training the contestants in the Golden Gloves, by Joseph Rosenthal, president of the Chamber of Commerce.

The jackets are gaberdine cloth with royal blue body and scarlet raglan sleeves, trimmed in the red and blue. On the back is the lettering "Sedalia Democrat Golden Glover." The trunks are scarlet with royal blue waist band, and a small royal blue boxing glove on one pant leg and the initials "SD"

Each champion trophy had the inscription "Sedalia Democrat-Capital, Golden Glove Champion, 1939" and also the division in which it was won.

The judges were Fred Mancuso, of Kansas City, and Father W. J. McGrane of the St. Patrick's church. Bobby Stewart of Kansas City was the referee, Manny Schupan of Kansas City, timekeeper and O. B. Poundstone announcer.

Munski Will Race Glenn Cunningham

Student At M. U. To Run Boyhood Hero For Mile

By HAROLD CLAASSEN

COLUMBIA, Mo., Feb. 3—(AP)—Lonesome John Munski, who gets his first crack at his boyhood hero, Glenn Cunningham, in the Wanamaker mile Saturday, developed his speed by beating his 12 sisters and brothers to the dinner table.

Although he won, it has taken this son of Polish immigrants 21 years to pack 140 pounds on his 5 foot, 11 inch frame. But it took him only 13 months as a University of Missouri student to erase four of the five records the mile Kansan left him as targets in the Big Six conference.

Saturday's race in New York is their first meeting and Lonesome John—he's always so far out in front he appears friendless—thinks too much of his hero to chase him. He'd like to be waiting for him at the finish line.

It was Cunningham's praise that brought Munski an invitation to compete in the games—praise as exhilerating as a five-buck raise because it came from his idol.

Cunningham will be in for a footrace Saturday. Munski considers heroes in the same light as Joe Louis treats friends. The former Montana schoolboy has but one idea—to get out in front in the shortest possible time and stay there.

"There will be at least five athletes in the race who know all the tricks and it is my first venture in big time competition,' the precise journalism student said before he left with Coach Jack Matthews for the east.

Then he reread the story of Harold Cagle, Oklahoma Baptist runner, winning the Prout 600-yard dash in his eastern debut at Boston last Saturday.

Munski galloped the fastest mile ever credited to a college sophomore, 4:10.1 in the distance medley relay at the 1938 Drake relays.

Last fall Munski slashed 14.5 seconds off Cunninghams Big Six mark in the two-mile team race, lowering the record to 9:17.5 But the announcement to the crowd was delayed several minutes—one official couldn't believe Munski had run the full distance.

Bettina And Fox Battle Tonight

NEW YORK, Feb. 3—(AP)—Melio Bettina and Tiger Jack Fox will maul each other in Madison Square Garden tonight for New York's world light heavyweight championship, a somewhat tarnished jewel in fistiania's crown.

These hitherto unsung performers will fight for a title good only in this state. John Henry Lewis is regarded as the best light heavy in the world and legitimate boss of the division outside of New York. The state athletic commission relieved him of the title because he wouldn't defend it against Fox, whom he once stopped in three rounds.

Mike Jacobs, scenting gold in the division's tangled affairs, has large plans for a bout between John Henry Lewis and Dave Clark of Detroit, with the victor meeting the winner of tonight's combat.

Fox's reputation as a hitter and Bettina's as a homespun hero who is kind to small children will swell tonight's gate to around $35,000. Melio is from Beacon, N. Y., and 1,500 of his fellow townsmen and their kin will be down chanting "Bring the bacon back to Beacon." Fox, from Spokane, Wash., will be shy on homefolks.

Fox has been installed a 5 to 12 favorite, but the arrival of the Beaconites today will hammer the odds down before the 15-round duel starts.

Bettina's manager, Jimmy Grippo, a magician of note, claims he often hypnotizes Bettina and sends him into what the boys call a "transom." The Tiger is a hypnotizer from the word go, but he uses his hands, not his eyes.

Ozarks Golden Gloves Champs

SPRINGFIELD, Mo., Feb. 2—(AP)—Golden Gloves boxing champions in six divisions were decided here tonight in the finals of the American Legion's five week tournament.

Only one champion repeated. He is Joe Rich, who retained featherweight laurels by decisioning Joy Warren, last year's bantamweight champ.

Two championships were won by default. Gene Gibson got the middleweight title because his scheduled opponent, Nova Hargus, Seymour deaf mute, broke his hand in training; and Lewis Walsworth got flyweight honors when his opponent failed to appear.

Results lastnight:

Bantamweight — Reed Mathenia decisioned Eugene Jacobson, Seymour.

Featherweight — Rich won over Warren.

Lightweight — Charles Gibson knocked out Mike Robinson in the second round.

Light heavyweight — Tom Murray, West Plains, decisioned Llying Cummings, Ozark.

Heavyweights — Jess Bloomer, Walnut Grove, outpointed Jim Duncan, Negro.

S-C Tigers Play Columbia Tonight

The Smith-Cotton Tigers go to Columbia today where tonight they meet the Hickman High school Kewpies in a basketball game. Ten players are making the trip to Columbia.

Coach Don Davenport this morning announced the following boys will be taken to Columbia: Cliff Logan, David Pierce, K. Meints, Connie and Bud Michaelis, Dale Patton, Paul Lingle, James Gardner and Tommy Sanders.

The absence of Buddy Agniel, who moved to Jefferson City last week is being felt at the guard position, and work has been started in making a replacement for the position.

Coach Davenport this morning said it should be a Sedalia game tonight although the loss of Agniel is expected to be felt.

Chemists Lose 29 To 13 To Stockton

Thursday night the Stockton Athletic Club's powerful aggregation won over the American Disinfecting Company "Chemists" 29 to 13. The game was very close until the last quarter when Stockton litterly ran the "Chemists" into the ground and went on to win by quite a margin.

D. Marmer was high scorer for Stockton with 10 points.

Bunny Taylor led the "Chemists" scoring with 6, while Roger Ayres had 4.

SHERIFF'S SALE IN PARTITION

By virtue and authority of an order of sale in partition, issued from the office of the clerk of the circuit court of Pettis County, Missouri, dated the 2nd day of December, 1938, and to me directed in favor of Third National Bank, of Sedalia, Missouri, as Trustee of the Daniel I. Wilcox Estate, B. J. Minnier, Flora Elliott, Wynona Elliott, Laura Whiteman, Lillian E. Jared, Stella M. Lower, and Mary Millicent Duly as plaintiffs, and against James J. Donnelly defendant, and it appearing to the court that the plaintiffs are entitled to the relief prayed for in their petition, ordered that the property described in plaintiff's petition be sold by the sheriff of Pettis County, Missouri, as provided by law in such cases. Now, therefore, in order to comply with the terms of said order of sale, I, the undersigned sheriff of Pettis County, Missouri, shall proceed to sell said real estate, so ordered sold, and situated in Pettis County, Missouri, to-wit:

The Southeast Quarter of the Southeast Quarter of Section number Twenty-five (25), and the Northeast Quarter of the Northeast Quarter, and the North Half of the Southeast Quarter of the Northeast Quarter of Section number Thirty-six (36), all in Township number Forty-seven (47) North, of Range number Twenty-one (21) West of the Fifth Principal Meridian, except the following described land: Land conveyed to D. C. and J. M. Newland by Deed recorded in Book 85 at Page 533, to T. S. Payne by Deed recorded in Book 109 at Page 328, to Michael McNutt by Deeds recorded in Book 110 at page 453 and Book 127 at page 599, and to William K. Green by Deed recorded in Book 116 at page 244 of the Recorder's Office of Pettis County, Missouri;

Also, one acre of ground described in farm lease recorded in Book "D" Page 449 of the Recorder's Office of Pettis County, Missouri described as follows: The tract of One (1) Acre located along the public highway just north of Newland Store on the J. W. Hammond Farm and more particularly described as being situated in the Southeast Quarter of the Southwest Quarter of the Northeast Quarter of the Northeast Quarter of Section number Thirty-six (36), Township number Forty-seven (47), Range number Twenty-one (21);

n Pettis County, Missouri, and I will on Saturday, the 11th day of February, 1939, between the hours of 9 o'clock a. m. and 5 o'clock p. m. of said day, at the west front door of the court house, in the city of Sedalia, Pettis County, Missouri, and while the circuit court is in session, sell the above described real estate at public auction to the highest bidder for cash in hand in order to comply with the said order of sale.

Dated this 20th day of January 1939.

M. L. MARLIN,
Sheriff of Pettis County, Missouri.
Montgomery and Salveter, attorneys.

TRUSTEE'S SALE

On the 16th day of February, 1933, Mary Guthrie, single, by her deed of trust recorded in trust deed record 356 on page 117 in the Recorder's Office of Pettis County, Mo., conveyed to the undersigned, H. T. Williams, as Trustee, The North West Quarter of Section Number Twenty-one (21), in Township Number Forty-six (46) North, of Range Number Twenty-three (23) West of the Fifth Principal Meridian, and containing One Hundred Sixty (160) acres, in Pettis County, Mo., to secure the payment of her four promissory notes and interest thereon in said deed described.

The interest on said notes is past due and unpaid. The taxes are due and unpaid, on said property. The said Mary E. Guthrie has been dead for more than nine months.

I will therefore in accordance with the provisions of said Deed of Trust and at the request of the legal holder of said notes, sell said property at the West front door of the Court House in the City of Sedalia, Pettis County, to the highest bidder for cash on Saturday, the 25th day of February, 1939, between the hours of nine A. 'Kentucky' In Technicolor At Best With A Great Romance

One of the remarkable things about "Kentucky," the 20th Century-Fox picture coming Tuesday to the Liberty Theatre, is that while it has been widely acclaimed as the industry's outstanding example of fine color photography, no one associated with the production ever had any previous experience with Technicolor.

No one, that is, with the exception of Loretta Young, who has the romantic lead in "Kentucky" opposite Richard Greene, Miss Young appeared in one other Technicolor film, "Romona," but all others in the cast and to Director David Butler the Technicolor cameras presented fresh problems of lighting and make-up Production Chief Darryl F. Zanuck was so pleased with the final print of the picture that he immediately decided to film Shirley Temple's next picture. "The Little Princess," in Technicolor.

New Stirring Trio Makes Its Bow in "Young in Heart"

Janet Gaynor, Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., and Paulette Goddard make their debut as an exciting new screen trio in David O. Selznick's comedy romance, 'The Young in Heart," which begins a two days engagement at the Liberty Theatre Sunday.

Roland "Topper" Young, Billie Burke, Henry Stephenson, Richard Carlson, romantic newcomer from the New York stage and Minnie Dupree head the imposing cast of this screen version of the I. A. R. Wylie Saturday Evening Post serial, "The Gay Banditti."

"The Young in Heart" is the delightful story of the Carletons, a family of fascinating phonies, who live by their charm and on anyone's money, and have been kicked out of only the best places from the Riviera to London. They're out to "take" the world, but their hearts get in the way and they get the surprise of their easy-going lives.

KMBC's Biggest Stage Show at The Uptown Theatre Sunday

Tex Owens, Laura Lee and her Pioneers, Hiram Higsby, Bud and Spud together in one huge stage offering at the Uptown Theatre this Sunday. That's news—for each and every one of these popular entertainers drew capacity audiences when they appeared here individually Tex Owens, who makes the words of a song paint a picture, will head this fine bill. His daughter, Laura Lee and her four Pioneers will delight again the listeners who enjoy seeing again this pretty little Miss and thrill to her excellent singing of songs of the West. Hiram Higsby, the inimitable comedian will again play his guitar and sing, as well as indulge in some comedy antics. He will add a lot of fun to the program when he serves as master-of-ceremonies.

Bud and Spud who a short time ago brought rounds of applause from the audience will again bring a new group of songs to delight you. Don't miss one of the finest offerings of Western type stage shows that Sedalia has ever had. And the best news of all—there will be no increase in admission price.

Entertainment Plus at The "Search For Talent" Hour at The Uptown Friday Night

Local entertainers will have their night Friday, when they will appear on the stage of the Uptown Theatre in the first of a "Search For Talent" hour. They will compete for cash prizes on the program and a grand prize of a broadcast over station KMBC at Kansas City. Those who have been slated to appear on this first program are Francis Henderson of Houstonia who will entertain with his guitar. Jack Farthing of this city who will specialize in harmonica playing. Frank McCarty a singer. The Renshaw brothers of Ionia who will present a duet of harmonica and guitar. Sadie Alice Whitfield of Dresden is entered to sing, and the popular trio of Albert Leet, Rosie Ellis and Johnnie Kueck and their orchestra will try to win the first honors. Nick Francisco and his comedy specialty rounds out a good hour of local entertainment that is always sure to be full of fun as well as showing some of the talent in Sedalia and neighboring towns. The amateur show is at 9:00 p. m.

Not Withdraw Nominations

Opposition To Roberts To Be Federal Judge

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3—(AP)—President Roosevelt told his press conference today he would not withdraw the nomination of Floyd H. Roberts to be a federal judge in Virginia.

He added if the senate refused to confirm the nominee, already rejected by the judiciary committee, he would write a letter to Roberts which would be right interesting.

Reports got about Capitol Hill yesterday the president probably would withdraw the nomination, which drew opposition from Virginia senators and a 15 to 3 rejection by the judiciary committee.

Mr. Roosevelt did not intimate what would be contained in his letter to the nominee.

The president also told reporters he would not withdraw the nomination of Thomas R. Amlie, Wisconsin Progressive, to be a member of the interstate commerce commission.

In response to another question he said he had not been requested to withdraw the name of Amlie, charged by opponents with being a radical, by the senate interstate commerce committee.

The name of Donald Walkefield Smith, reappointed to the national labor relations board, did not enter into today's press conference, but in congressional corridors reports recurred the president would cancel his selection in view of active opposition by the American Federation of Labor. Mr. Roosevelt has not yet submitted Smith's nomination to the senate.

Should Smith be asked to quit his post or be transferred to some other federal position, a number of senators predicted former Rep. David J. Lewis of Maryland would be appointed to the labor board. Mr. Roosevelt backed Lewis when he unsuccessfully tried to unseat Senator Tydings last year in Maryland's Democratic primary.

Smith, one of three board members, has been criticized by the AFL on the contention he has been partial to the CIO. William Green, Federation president, recently wrote all senators asking them to reject the nomination when it was submitted.

Denial Of Partiality

Smith has denied any partiality has been shown, either by the board or by him personally. His friends have argued that opposition to him has come from critics of the Wagner labor act.

Senators who asked that Judge Roberts' nomination be withdrawn said a checkup showed there was no chance the senate would confirm him. The judiciary committee disapproved the nomination 15 to 3.

Senator Burke (D-Neb) supporting Glass and Byrd, asserted that at least 75 senators had indicated they would vote against the nomination. Republicans were expected to oppose it as a unit.

Floor debate on the Roberts' appointment was held over yesterday on motion of Senator Barkley, the Democratic leader.

Glass and Byrd have not questioned Roberts' qualifications, but have charged their recommendations were ignored in the appointment.

Some administration followers said they felt Roberts was thoroughly qualified, but that it would be wise for the president to withdraw his name to prevent any emfavorable senate vote.

Mr. Roosevelt faces another fight on his appointment of Thomas R. Amlie, Wisconsin Progressive, to be a member of the interstate commerce commission. Hearings on Amlie's nomination will start Monday, when a Wisconsin delegation will offer objections.

French Program At S-C Assembly

A unique French program was presented this morning at the Smith-Cotton Senior high school assembly. It was opened by the high school chorus singing "La Marsellaise," French national anthem, entirely in French. The chorus was directed by Burney Morris.

Emily Gatschet played a piano solo, "Melody in F," by A Rubenstein.

A French play, "Le Surprise d'Isidore" was presented by members of the French classes. The play was given entirely in French diction. The students taking part were Atwell Bohling, Dorothy Dillard , Ruth Allwell, Frances Messerly and Buddy Chasnoff. Joan Waddell directed the play and Genevieve Stanley gave the English preview.

Carolyn Carter concluded the program by giving a military tap dance. Mrs. Glenn Moser accompanied on the piano.

The program was sponsored by Wilfred Bell.

Repast at Meeting Held By The Maccabees

The Crescent Tent, Hive 4, Maccabees met Thursday at which time a chicken and dumpling supper was enjoyed at 6:30 o'clock that evening, followed by the regular meeting of the organization.

During the meeting Captain Eugene Hansman made a talk on the National Guard Armory. His address was supplemented by remarks by Lieutenant Pat Handley.

Three new members were initiated into the organization.

the house and senate and some newspaper owners, were deliberately putting before the public a deliberate misrepresentation of facts.

Against Politic Policy

Mr. Roosevelt said he always had believed foreign policy should not be involved in politics, and he did not think the 1940 campaign should enter into the situations as to foreign policy and American defense in the year 1939.

All the people had to do, he declared, was to read the headlines to realize the pure guesses in connection with his conferences. He added these guesses became dressed up the next day to assume a factual position.

Asked to state exactly what happened at his conference with the military committee so as to clarify the situation, the President said he already had given the press that in his restatement of foreign policy.

He said the question of secrecy was 100 per cent bunk. To illustrate Mr. Roosevelt said some reports reached the government which were believed to be reasonably true but which probable could not be proved in a court.

He did not believe it advisable to give out such information at his press conferences, he continued, because first, it may not be absolutely correct, and second, making it public would terminate getting future information from the same souces.

The only information withheld was of this character, the President asserted. He said he had told the senators some of this kind of information, but believed it should not be made public because future information may put a different light on it.

The President said he had 14 or 15 newspapers before him which gave erroneous reports of what took place at the conference with the senate committee. He added that the original reports were qualified by such phrases as "it is learned" and "it is understood" but that future editorials and news stories treated the original reports as fact by not repeating the qualifications as to authenticity and failing to mention contradictions.

The public, Mr. Roosevelt said, knows pretty well that when they read such reports that they are not news but merely rumors.

Asked about the "American frontier is on the Rhine" statement, the President, with a smile, declared some boob got that off.

He noted that this report had been attacked in Germany and Italy, had been applauded in France and Great Britain but that both the attack and the applause had been based on mis-statement of fact.

The President added that he would like to trace the person who gave out that report.

He replied emphatically in the negative when a reporter asked whether the "frontier catchphrase" summed up the actual situation.

He also replied negatively when asked whether someone in the committee conference with him had made such a remark to him.

Gives Direct Quotation

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3—(AP)—President Roosevelt permitted the newsmen to quote him directly today on what he described as his re-statment of United States foreign policy.

"The (foreign) policy," he said, "has not changed and it is not going to change. If you want a comparatively simple statement of the policy I will give it to you and Kannee (Henry Kannee, official stenographer) can copy it out afterwards:

"No. 1—We are against any entangling alliances, obviously.

"No. 2—We are in favor of the maintenance of world trade for everybody — all nations — including ourselves.

"No. 3—We are in complete sympathy with any and every effort made to reduce or limit armaments

"No. 4—As a nation — as American people — we are sympathetic with the peaceful maintenance of political, economic and social independence of all nations in the world."

Usually reporters are required to refrain from quoting directly what the chief executive says at his press conferences. Instead they quote him indirectly.

No Immediate Comment

BERLIN, Feb. 3.—(AP)—A foreign ministry spokesman expressed keen interest tonight in President Roosevelt's press conference statement stamping as lies reports that he had called the Rhine and France American frontiers.

"We must first go into conference on this before we can comment," he declared.

One spokesman declared, however:

"Speaking for myself, I only ask: Why did this statement come so late? Why was the world kept on tenterhooks for two day?"

Villa Broken Into

A report was made to the police that The Villa, on South Ohio avenue, was broken into sometime during the past few days. Nothing was found to be missing following an investigation by the police.

Entrance to the place was made through a rear window.

Dentist Admits Double Slaying

Kills First Wife And Son After Dodging Law

PITTSBURGH, Feb. 3. — District Attorney Andrew T. Park related today the bizarre story of a conscience-harried young dentist who, although remarried, returned here after a long flight from the law and admitted the slaying of his son and first wife.

Unsuccessful as a dentist, 34-year-old Dr. Norman Stewart, 2nd who later became a grocery clerk and bartender, stole $300 from a Jacksonville, Fla., hotel to finance the trip and came here yesterday, leaving the woman he married a year ago in Jacksonville, Park said.

Be-spectacled and neatly dressed in a dark blue suit, Stewart walked into the office of Attorney C. Dick Cable yesterday and told his story. Cable turned him over to Park.

Last night, Stewart, showing no emotion, detailed in a gruesome statement how, driven to desperation by debt, his mind "went blank" after an argument with his lovely young first wife over finances in their tiny flat above a garage in suburban Wilkinsburg.

When he came to his senses later Park said the statement added, Stewart found his wife, Mary Louise McClelland Stewart, 29, of Wilkinsburg, and his four-year-old son and namesake, Norman, 3rd, dead—beaten to death with a hammer and stabbed with a bread knife.

That was on June 15, 1935 when, after having failed to make a success of a dental practice, Stewart held a depression job as a $15-a-week grocery clerk.

With $11 in his pocket, Park said the statement related, Stewart hitch-hiked to Jacksonville where he was a bartender and odd jobs man. The district attorney did not disclose the name of the Jacksonville woman Stewart said he had married.

"I came back to Pittsburgh because I wanted to get the whole thing off my mind," Park quoted Stewart as saying.

The district attorney added that Stewart had been indicted for murder after the deaths of his first wife and son and that he probably would be brought to trial in several weeks. He was committed to jail.

Feared Fingerprinting

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Feb. 3. Detective Sergeant Fred Nelson expressed belief today fear of being fringerprinted and the disclosure he was being sought prompted Dr. Norman Stewart, 2nd, to leave his job as bartender here and return to Pittsburgh to admit the 1935 slaying of his wife and four year old son.

Nelson said Stewart was known here as Fred L. Flake and was employed at a hotel bar.

Hotels here recently required all employes to be fingerprinted.

Stewart, or Flake as he was known here, disappeared January 25 without submitting his fingerprints, Nelson related, and the hotel discovered a shortage of $300. A warrant charging Fred L. Flake with embezzlement was issued.

Detective Sergeant W. E. Hurlbert related that Stewart's wife, whom he married under the name of Flake over a year ago, was the former Margaret Adams of Moultrie, Ga.

Hurlbert said she did not know why her husband had disappeared and when he failed to return, went to the home of her parents at Moultrie and later to visit a sister at Tampa. She returned here yesterday, he said, to try to learn the whereabouts of her missing husband.

Wool Marketing Meet On Monday

The annual Pettis County Livestock and Wool Marketing meeting will be held in the Assembly room of the Court House, Monday, February 6, starting at 10:00 A. M., according to an announcement by J. U. Morris, County Extension Agent.

Mr. Morris is cordially inviting all Pettis County livestock producers to attend this annual meeting.

Many Bequests In E. W. Elden Will

The will of the late Ellis W. Elden was filed in the probate court today, in which were made the following bequests:

To Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Griffin, Clarksville, Red River county, Texas, the 120 acre farm on which they have been tenants for many years.

To Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Hooser, Clarksville, Texas, the 114 acre farm on which they have been tenants for several years.

To Dr. A. A. Woodin and his wife Susan, Waterloo, N. Y., a note for $1,000, secured by a deed of trust on Sedalia property.

To Ora J. Akin and Orpha Akin, his home property, 1706 South Vermont avenue, together with all household and kitchen furniture.

To E. H. Weinrich a farm in Callaway county.

The face value of a paid up life insurance policy, about $300, to Tom and Hattie Bohon, 509 West Sixth street, Sedalia.

A $1000 Liberty bond was left in trust to Dr. C B Trader, the income to be used to maintain the lot in Crown Hill cemetery, in which Mr. Ellis and his wife are buried. The will requests that the income be given to Tom or Hattie Bohon to be used for the care of the lot, any amount over and above needed to be theirs.

To the Broadway Presbyterian church, Sedalia, $1,000.

Five hundred dollars to each of the following: Irma Whiting, Bunnie Elden. Isabel Campbell, Gladys Moore, Mary Ann Placard, John Elden, Sylvania, Ohio.

To Bert Elden and his wife, Blanche, Sylvania, Ohio, $1,000.

To Lillian Hallam Rochester, N. Y. and her adopted daughter Lillian May Rommel, Scottsville, N. Y., $500 each.

To James Hallam, Rochester, N. Y., $100.

To Ora J. Akin and Orpha Akin, a $1,200 promissory note, secured by Pettis county property.

To J. E. (Tom) Melton, Sedalia lots 8, 9, 10 in block 8, Ritters addition.

To Albert Ellis Woodin, Waterloo, N. Y., his watch, chain and K. P. emblem.

To Dr. C. B. Trader, whom he named executor of the estate, the remainder of the estate after all bequests have been made.

The will states that if any one named in the document as a beneficiary shall contest the will, they shall forfeit all right to participate in the estate.

The will was made October 19, 1938.

The inventory has not been filed with the court, but the personal property is estimated at about $12,000.

Mrs. Mooney To Fight On Divorce

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 3.—(AP)—Mrs. Rena Mooney said today that Tom Mooney, pardoned recently after serving more than 22 years in prison, had demanded that she divorce him.

Mooney would not comment immediately but indicated he might issue a statement later.

Mrs. Mooney declared she would fight any divorce action.

Mooney was convicted of murder after the bombing of the 1916 preparedness day parade here.. His wfie said she had aided him throughout the years in his efforts to obtain freedom, which culminated in a pardon by Gov. Culbert L. Olson.

"Right after he was released from San Quentin prison Tom demanded that I get a divorce," Mrs. Mooney said. "His excuse was that we had drifted apart during the years he was in prison.

"It's pathetic. He made the demand in the presence of his attorney.

"But I should say I won't give him a divorce. We've been through too much to think of divorce."

Mrs. Mooney, who is paid $85 a month for her music work with the federal music project, expressed the opinion her husband "wanted to go his own way" on speaking tours for the labor cause.

Upon his release from prison he said one of his objectives was to unite the labor movement.

"We have been married 27 years," Mrs. Mooney continued. "Now I'm 61 years old. We are getting along in years and I want to spend the rest of my life with old Tom Mooney.

"I fought to save him from the gallows and I fought to free him from prison. Things have been very hard and I once seriously considered digging worms and selling them to fishermen to earn a living.

"I'd like to go with him and be present at his personal appearances. But they won't let me do this."

Allege Attempt To Steal Shirts

John A. Griffin, who gave his home as Columbia, was arrested by the police Thursday evening after it was alleged he attempted to steal two shirts from Montgomery-Ward's. Griffin was caught in the store by employes and taken to the office and while there it was said he attempted to assault one of the employes when he was declared to have made a grab for his pocket knife.

He was quickly subdued and upon arrival of the police he was turned over to them to be taken to the city jail.

The police said this afternoon charges of petit larceny would be filed in the court of Judge C. W. Bente, sitting as ex-officio justice of the peace.

Some Decline On Stock Market

NEW YORK, Feb. 3.—(AP)—Light profit taking stemmed the rallying tide in today's stock market and leading issues backed down fractions to a point or more at the worst.

Slackness of dealings on the reaction brought in a little buying support in the final hour and extreme declines were reduced in the majority of cases at the close.

The most encouraging feature of the proceedings, from the standpoint of the analysts, was that important offerings failed to appear. In the face of the general drift there was a smattering of modest advances at the finish.

Church Events

Nine Intermediate R. A.'s, their sponsor Elmo Lingle, and the pastor, met in the church basement Monday evening for a social hour. The first part of the evening was spent in a hotly contested table tennis tournament. Then a milder form of entertainment was enjoyed, dominoes.

But the main attraction of the evening was the hamburger fry. The nine boys and two men consumed hamburger, pickles, onions, mustard and coffee with the greatest of pleasure.

The R. A.'s hold their program and mission study meeting on the second Wednesday night of each month. There were four new members at this social meeting.

Women Win In SBA Question Hour

Following the regular meeting of Fidelity Council, No. 53, Security Benefit Association, Thursday night, Ray Weinrich and Adolph Glenn had charge of the question hour, propounding many questions of public interest. The women were again winners in points and attendance.

The social hour was featured by various games and an orchestra dance, participated in by members and many invited guests. Next Thursday evening the entertainment committee has arranged a St. Valentines' party and an orchestra dance. Refreshments will also be served.

Mother's Standby in Treating
CHILDREN'S COLDS

FOR RELIEVING discomforts of chest colds and night coughs, rub Vicks VapoRub on throat, chest, and back at bedtime. Its poultice-vapor action relieves local congestion and helps the youngster relax into restful sleep.
FOR COUGHING and irritated throat due to colds, put VapoRub on the child's tongue. It melts, bathes the throat with comforting medication. Also massage on throat and chest.
FOR HEAD-COLD "sniffles" and misery, melt a spoonful of VapoRub in a bowl of boiling water. Have the child breathe in the steaming vapors. This loosens phlegm, clears air-passages.

Some Old Folks Can't See That Conditions Change

Aunt Mame came to call. Aunt Mame was the matriarch of the family. She told all her great-nephews and nieces how to conduct their affairs, and the worst of it was that almost all the time she was right.

But once in a while she was wrong. She had another failing, too. She never allowed an ounce of leeway for human nature or conditions. A slip in any direction and it was just too bad, as far as Auntie was concerned.

Today she came in, shook the snow off and let Emma take off her galoshes. A cup of hot tea thawed her nicely, but Emma noticed with misgiving that the frozen lines about her mouth were still fixed. There was something on Aunt Mame's mind, without a doubt.

"I was thinking," she said at last, that Jimmy is big enough to help you now, Emma. Brother Jake was exactly his age when he started his paper route. Jake got up at five every morning, rain or shine, and worked for hours before breakfast. As he grew older he was taken into the office as a printer's devil. And from then on, he rose to the top. He became one of the biggest publishers in the country."

"But, don't you know, they took off all the boys under sixteen in this state? Jimmy couldn't sell papers if he tried. Indeed he did try."

"Nonsense. That's silly. Well, if that's the case, why doesn't he get a job as errand boy? The grocer might be able to give him a job."

"He tried that, too. You see all deliveries are by truck now. And boys his age are not allowed to drive. He helped to fix stock on Friday and Saturday nights, but one of the older men complained He had been laid off, and he said boys had no business working at jobs that belonged to men."

"He could sell something. And you are handy at baking. Why can't he drum up trade after school selling pies and cakes? It would put an extra penny in your pocket, and dear knows you need it."

Auntie Is Persistent

"We tried that, too. But the bakers fussed and said we would have to take out a license. They make the fee very high here, so people can't undermine the store trade."

"Humph," said Aunt Mame. "Let me see. He could shovel off pavements. He is strong and he's fourteen.'

"He tried that, too. Some men who have contracts with customers gave him a shove one day and told him to scram. He was underbidding them. People wont pay a boy what they pay a full grown man. He had to give it up."

"In the spring he could help a farmer.'"

"I suppose so, without pay. Our labor laws are pretty strict here. I guess I'll just have to wait until Jimmy is sixteen or so before he can help me."

Aunt Mame said, "Here's a check for twenty-five dollars. I'm glad I'm seventy. This country was a good place once."

There are upward of 250,000 house trailers for motor cars in use throughout the United States.

Research Has Discovered What Foods Disagree With Most People

By DR. MORRIS FISHBEIN

Editor, Journal of the American Medical Association, and of Hygeia, the Health Magazine.

Innumerable surveys of diet and health indicate that certain foods are much more likely to disagree with healthy people than are others. The vegetables of the cabbage family are among the leaders in this list. Garlic, onions and chocolate are closely associated.

When 1,000 healthy persons were questioned as to the foods which disagreed with them, the vast majority stated that cabbage was responsible. Both cooked cabbage and raw cabbage have been blamed. Some of the people said that the cabbage responsible was overcooked.

From a scientific point of view it has been found that the strong flavor of hot cabbage, cauliflower and turnips is probably due to the setting free of sulphur compounds by the ferments. Long cooking of vegetables in the cabbage family tends to develop disagreeable flavors and odors, including also the development of an increased acidity.

When the vegetables are cooked from the first in cold or tepid water, the plant enzymes that are present will decompose the sulphur compounds.

If the vegetables are placed in boiling water in an uncovered kettle and cooked for the shortest possible time to produce tenderness, these effects do not occur.

Investigators in the division of food and nutrition of Ohio State University tested the effects of cauliflower and cabbages on 20 different people and found that 95 per cent were affected by the various methods of preparing cabbage and cauliflower.

Vegetables cooked for an hour and a half were the worst offenders in causing digestive disturbances and thereafter in order came raw cauliflower, cabbage cooked 45 minutes, raw and coarsely shredded cabbage, next cauliflower cooked for 45 minutes, next shredded cabbage. Only 5 per cent of people were affected by vegetables cooked only until they became tender.

Apply a little furniture polish to brass faucets after cleaning them to keep them from looking water-spouted; the oil in the polish prevents chemical action from the splashing water.

Cornell University is in possession of an author's copy of the song "Dixie." The original song copy was stolen from the composer and the presented copy made later.

How an Office Seeker Killed Garfield

HARDLY had James A. Garfield taken the office of President in 1881 when tall, mustached Charles J. Guiteau dogged his steps. Guiteau, 42 years old, son of a Freeport, Ill., banker, was a lawyer in Chicago before Garfield's election and long since had been called eccentric.

Soon after the Garfield family moved into the White House Guiteau appeared at the executive mansion asking for the post of minister to Austria. Day after day he picketed the President's offices without success. He would sit quietly for hours in the reception room, speaking to no one, apparently oblivious of the stream of visitors. Finally, after several weeks he began writing scores of letters on White House stationery. At length the presidential secretaries barred him from their offices.

But Guiteau was imperturbed. Next he picketed the state department offices, still demanding the Austrian post. When told there was no chance whatever he said he would be content with the French consulate post. Then the state department excluded him.

Several days later Guiteau got his revenge. He shot Garfield in a Washington railroad station, once in the arm and once in the back. Garfield died subsequently and Guiteau was hanged for his crime.

What Is The Church For?

The work of a church may be broadly construed as having to do with every department of human life; but it has to do with this wide range from the center of the regenerated personality. Good sanitation, material prosperity and education are the fruitage of religion; they are not the causes of spiritual life. The business of the church is to promote these interests of the community by imparting spiritual life to individuals, and by having her own organization permeated with spiritual forces. It is our business to maintain the church.

Why not accept the invitation and COME TO CHURCH NEXT SUNDAY?

For every dollar spent in the United States: 24 cents goes for living, 21 cents goes for luxuries, 12 cents is wasted, 10 cents goes to the government, 9 cents goes for crime, 2 cents goes for education, but only 1 cent goes to the church.

The most important of the recent discoveries was recently made at Lachish, a Bible city in southern Palestine. There the diggers found a red bowl with writing painted on it. In archaic Hebrew the inscription read, "His righteousness is my hand." The supposition is that the inscription furnishes the link between the Sinaitic script and the later Phoenician alphabet, proving erroneous the theory that the earlier books of the Old Testament were transmitted by word of mouth.

Children living in the vicinity of Grace and Holy Trinity Cathedral, Kansas City, says Church Business, many of whom are sadly underprivileged, have been able to join the class of the privileged in one respect at least, in that they have all sorts of toys to play with. A Toy Lending Library has been started at the church.

Toys are gathered from friends, those that need mending are repaired by a volunteer group, toys are loaned to any child desiring a toy, and the library is located in the basement room of the Cathedral. Children file past a desk as they turn their toys in, as in a regular library. As many as a hundred and seventy-five children have been issued toys in one Saturday afternoon. Morse than four hundred children have cards from the Toy Lending Library.

A church which has no walls, organ, pews, choir or collection has been discovered in Dorset County, England. Attended by only eight worshippers the church stands on a slope near a stream at Ashley Chase, Dorset. Spiritual leader is Lady Milne-Watson, wife of Sir David Milne-Watson, chairman of a Gas Utility Corporation. The church is dedicated to St. Luke and dates back to the twelfth century. Its altar consists of a wooden cross and built-up stones resembling an early altar of the Church of England. Although seats are provided for eight worshippers, no one sits down when attending a service, which is conducted by Lady Milne-Watson, no priest being available to take charge.

First Services Sunday At New Catholic Church

St. Joseph's Catholic church, Sedalia's first church for colored people, will have its first service at 10 o'clock Sunday morning. That service will be the first of a ten days mission.

OF WHAT VALUE ARE PICTURES IN TEACHING?

It is discovered that by the use of pictures attention can be held not only for a few minutes but over a long period of time, as is seen in moving picture entertainments.

By the use of pictures one can remember better what has been taught. One has but to recall past experiences to remember something of a speaker's physical actions or attractions and to forget any thing he might have said. Then, one recalls facts better when associated with pictures.

A picture is a medium of making clear an important truth. If a visible picture is not available, a teacher may resort to word painting so that the hearer may visualize a presented truth.

Focus Week For Girl's Auxiliary

In keeping with the southwide observance of Focus Week for the Girl's Auxiliaries of the W. M. U. of the Southern Baptist convention, the East Sedalia Baptist church is planning many activities for the girls during the next week.

The observance will begin with the pastor preaching a special sermon for the G. A.'s at the regular morning preaching hour Sunday. At the regular mid-week service the Junior and Intermediate Girls will be given fifteen minutes to present some of the interesting features of their work.

On Friday night the Junior girls will meet at the pastor's home for a luncheon. This will be followed by the reading and studying of one of their approved mission books. The remainder of the night will be spent in a slumber party. They will take breakfast Saturday morning with the pastor and his wife.

At the same time the Intermediate girls will be enjoying a similar meeting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Elmo Lingle at 1111 East Fifteenth street. The Intermediate girls will add an extra feature to their meeting by giong on a hike Saturday morning after breakfast.

Mrs. Elmo Lingle is young people's leader in the East Sedalia Baptist W. M. U. and also for the Harmony Baptist Association W. M. U. Mrs. C. N. Farley is president of the East Sedalia Baptist W. M. U.

Program Before Stony Point PTA

The Stony Point Parent Teacher Association met Friday at the school, Mrs. Lucille Luetjen, president, presiding. Porter Cole was secretary. The president appointed a committee composed of Bennie Klein, Kenneth Lewis and Mrs. H. Adams to have charge of the next meeting.

The following program was presented:

Playlet, "O'Hoolahan's Mistake," with the following cast:

Judge of the county court, Bennie Klein; Pat, Kenneth Lewis; Ted, Oscar Rehmer; Biddy, Judge's wife, Mrs. Bennie Klein.

Reading, Mrs. H. Adams.

Play, "Visitors from the City," with the following cast: Mrs. Rachel Taylor, an elderly woman, Mrs. Hazel Lewis; Mrs. Matilda Taylor, her daughter-in-law, Evelyn Adams; Mrs. Rosa Markley, her niece from the city, Mrs. Edith Lewis; Rufus Markley and Harry Markley, her boys; Roma Klein and Susanna Adams; John Taylor, farmer, Bennie Klein.

Songs, by Homan twins, Violet and Viola.

After the program refreshments were served by the following committee, Mrs. K. J. Morris, Mrs. John Page, Mrs. Fred Page, Mrs. Ray Lewis.

Health enough to make work a pleasure.

Wealth enough to support your needs.

Strength enough to battle with difficulties and overcome them.

Grace enough to confess your sins and forsake them.

Patience enough to toil until some good is accomplished.

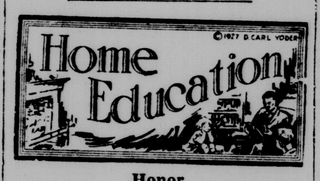
Charity enough to see some good in your neighbor.

Love enough to move you to be useful and helpful to others.

Faith enough to make real the things of God.

Hope enough to remove all anxious fears concerning the future.

Goethe.



Honor

There is a growing tendency to unduly place honor on the youth rather than on the parents. The current expression is "this is the day of the youth of our land," at the same time, there is a growing disrespect of the aged, even of parents. The commandment to "honor father and mother" is quite forgotten and a new commandment "honor the children" is substituted.

It is well to remember that by life's experiences there is an accumulation of information that furnishes the wisdom of the aged to parents that youth may well take into account. Such consideration will make for harmony and cooperation so essential to a happy home.

On the other hand, due regard needs to be given for initiative, noble adventure, noble effort, righteous ambitions, that are most prevalent in youth and which are to be respected and which demand elements of honor.

So honor belongs to all members of the family.

D. Carl Yoder.

Peter Preaches at Pentecost. Acts 2:12-41 for Sunday, February 5.

Peter once a coward, is now bold and in truth becomes chief among the apostles. Jesus' advice when he descended was for his followers to tarry in Jerusalem to wait for the promise of the Father and to be endued with power. The result of the waiting is the basis for this lesson.

V. 12. "And they were all amazed, and were in doubt, saying to one another, What meaneth this?" The cause of the amazement was the hearing of the preaching of the gospel in their own native tongues. It is God's will that all people shall hear his gospel, hence Home and Foreign Missions.

V. 13. "Others mocking, said: "These men are full of new wine." Unbelievers always have an excuse and an explanation favoring their own position. Even some professing Christians of today make light of the work of the Holy Spirit, especially if a richer Christian experience is involved.

V. 14. "But Peter standing up with the eleven, lifted up his voice, and said unto them, "Ye men of Judea, and all ye that dwell at Jerusalem, be this known unto you, and hearken to my words." One of the problems of today is to have men listen to God's word. Peter made preparation to deliver God's message which is of such importance as to call for first and closest attention.

V. 15. "For these are not drunken, as ye suppose, seeing that it is but the third hour of the day." Those addicted to drink would be seen in ani ntoxicated state later in the day, the third hour being nine o'clock.

V. 16. "But this is that which was spoken by the prophet Joel." This wonderful manifestation of the Spirit is the fulfillment of that prophecy of Joel which indicates that the age of the Messiah would be the dispensation of the Spirit.

V. 17. "And it shall come to pass in the last days, saith God. I will pour out my Spirit upon all flesh; and your sons and your daughters shall prophesy, and your young men shall see visions, and your old men shall dream dreams." The ushering in of the dispensation of the Spirit would be accompanied with new and rich experiences such as was demonstrated here.

V. 18. "And on my servants and on my handmaidens I will pour out in those days of my spirit." Christianity is a tremendous force in breaking down artificial distinctions which seperate men.

V. 36. " Therefore let all the house of Israel know assuredly, that God hath made that same Jesus, whom ye crucified, both Lord and Christ." That Jesus was both Lord and Christ was Peter's text. Peter did not mince words as to their relations to God. Honey-coated words will never save sinners.

V. 37. "Now when they heard this, they were pricked in their heart and said unto Peter and to the rest of the apostles, Men and Brethren, what shall we do?" Peter's address backed by prophecy and demonstrated facts, left his hearers helpless with no reply except a question as to the right course to be taken.

V. 38. "Then said Peter unto them, Repent, and be baptized every one of you in the name of Jesus Christ for the remission of sins, and ye shall receive the gift of the Holy Ghost." It is significant that tre message of repentance was foremost in the preaching of John the Baptist and in that of Christ. Repentance involves a sorrow for sin and a turning away from sin with due exercise of faith in Christ's pardon. Not only is pardon offered, but a filling of the Spirit that cleanses the heart of sin, the seed of sins.

V. 39. "For the promise is to you and to your children, and to all that are afar off, even as many as the Lord our God shall call." It is significant that we are included in this promise. Here is the place where words are but symbols of a richer experience.

Vs. 30, 41. "And with many other words did he testify and exhort, saying, Save yourself from this untoward generation. Then they that gladly received his word were baptized; and the same day there were added to them about three thousand souls." The proof of Peter's doctrine of salvation is seen in results.

WIT AND WISDOM
Propaganda

The college student, son of a clergyman, discovered he was uncomfortably short of money, so he spent some time concocting a letter which should have the right effect upon a somewhat severe and pious parent. When finally completed the letter read:

"My dear Father: I wonder if you will oblige me very greatly by sending me a copy of this month's Parish Magazine, also $50.

P. S.—Don't forget the Parish Magazine."

Peter Preaches at Pentecost. Acts 2:12-41 for Sunday, February 5.

1. How account for the difference in Peter as we saw him in the lesson two weeks ago?
2. What were the fundamental characteristics of Peter's sermon?
3. What should a preaching service accomplish?
4. What are the conditions essential for such an accomplishment?
5. What condition must the disciples of every age meet to secure the outpouring of the Holy Spirit?

CLERICUS SAYS: "We need not only to see our sins; if we would be saved, we must do something about them. Sin will never heal itself. It will first stain the soul, and finally drag it down to degredation and death."

LESSON PRAYER: "We would find the truth of which divine words are symbols. We would know the Holy Spirit as the third person of the Trinity."

BOOK REVIEW

HISTORICAL ATLAS OF THE HOLY LAND, published by Rand McNally and Company, is a comprehensive collection of forty-six maps, including maps of ancient Mediterranean lands; Palestine before the Conquest of Egypt; Palestine of the Tribes of Israel; eight maps tracing the life of Jesus; the Isles of Greece and the Seven Churches and Modern Palestine. The atlas is authoratative, graphic and unbiased and will be of great value to religious leaders and individuals or study groups interested in modern Palestine—its background and its economic problems.

Wheat Prices A Shade Lower

CHICAGO, Feb. 3.—(AP)—After fluctuating only ⅜ cent the entire session—one of the narrowest trading ranges in market records here—wheat prices closed a shade lower today.

Volume of business was unusually small. Traders said speculative activity was a minimum. This is normally a dull season in the grain trade.

Wheat closed ¼ to ½ cent lower, May and July 68⅝c to 68¾c; corn ⅜ to ⅝ cent down, May 50¼c to 50⅜c, July 51⅜c, oats unchanged to ⅛ cent higher.

120 Acres located 1½ miles from La Monte, Mo., on gravel road. 5 room house, barn 30x40, other buildings. 112 acres in cultivation. Watered by well and pond. Good level land, well located. Priced to sell, $3250.00. Terms.

Celebration Of Birthdays Sunday

Mrs. Gilla C. Roe, of Bunceton and her son Samuel Cole Roe of near Syracuse were honor guests at a birthday celebration Sunday at the home of the latter, the occasion being the 80th birthday of Mrs. Roe and the 41st of Mr. Roe. The birthday of the mother and son each fall on January 25 and is celebrated each year on the Sunday following when members of the family and close relatives come together for the day.

Mrs. Roe, together with 33 of her kinsfolk including children, grandchildren and other relatives, enjoyed a turkey dinner prepared by Mrs. Sam Roe. The centerpiece for the table was a large two tier birthday cake surrounded by candles.

Those present were, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Roe and children, Peggy Joe and Bobby, Topeka, Kans.; True Roe and son George, Kansas City; Porter Cash, Warrensburg; Mr. and Mrs. Tom Graves and Alvin Pearl Porter, Tipton; Virgil Oswald and son Vern Lee, Columbia; Mr. and Mrs. Buddie Oswald, Calhoun; Mr. and Mrs. Less Painter and son Billy, Bell Air; Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Painter, Miss Marie Painter and Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Solomon, Boonville; Mr. and Mrs. Aubrey Gander and daughters, Gilla Anna and Fern, Bunceton; and Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Solomon and Myrl Roe and Hob Solomon, New Franklin.

Program By Sixth Grade Workers

The Sixth Grade Workers club of Washington school met in room 12 Thursday afternoon, with Chester Zarnowic, president, presiding.

Mary Lou Biggs was chairman of the following recitation program that was presented:

"Dr. Noall," Lucille Lewis.

"Nonsense Rhymes," Harold Mackinson.

"Oscar, the Trained Seal," Buddy Arnold.

"Strictly Gum-Proof," Mildred Bell.

"The Mouse and the Sausage," Jean Whitley.

Miss Hortense Bapple, the teacher of the Sixth grade, is sponsor of the Workers club, and Rebecca Arnold is secretary.

Report Made Of Suicide Attempt

Raymond Carver, according to a police report and investigation, endeavored to commit suicide about 11:45 o'clock Thursday night at Polly Howe's, 120 East Jefferson street, by drinking a substance which he declared was poison.

Carver, the police said, was rushed to the Bothwell hospital in the McLaughlin ambulance. He was given medical attention by Dr. J. W. Boger.

He is still in the hospital and is reported to be somewhat better.

Views Conflict On Ability To Build Planes

Debate In The Senate Over Issue Stormy

Question New Foreign Policy

Some Would Sell Supplies To All Neutrals

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2.—(AP)—President Roosevelt and members of a house appropriations subcommittee studied today "world affairs" and "technical developments" in connection with the army defense program.

He conferred for about an hour with Chairman Taylor (D-Colo) of the full house appropriations committee, and an eight member subcommittee headed by Representative Snyder (D-Pa). The subcommittee has been framing the war department appropriation bill.

"We were just talking over the technical details as to the general situation in world affairs and what this committee is considering," said Taylor.

"It was a very ordinary and friendly discussion of the situation."

Both Taylor and Snyder said the President did not go into a broad oultine of the background of foreign policy as he did at the White House meeting Tuesday with the senate military committee.

Snyder added there was no mention of the sale of planes to France.

Senator Austin (R-Vt) said the five Republican members of the committee wanted first hand information because this was a vital question in the controversy over proposed sale of the latest type of military planes to France.

The projected sale aroused a stormy debate in the senate yesterday, with critics of the president demanding that he state his foreign policy publicly.

An assertion the domestic armament program would be slowed considerably if planes were sold to France was made by a member of the senate military committee, who declined to be quoted by name.

On the other hand, G. Grant Mason of the civil aeronautics authority was reported to have testified that even if the French purchased 60 light bombers, they could obtain delivery long before the army would have funds available for its own new craft.

Senator Barkley of Kentucky, the Democratic leader, told the senate during yesterday's argument there was no truth in intimations that foreign sales would retard development of the army air corps to its proposed 5,500 planes.

Plants Have Capacity

He declared that plants in this country had sufficient capacity to take care of army needs and to fill foreign orders.

"If the record of the senate military affairs committee could be made public," retorted Senator Clark (D-Mo) "I would be very glad to completely explode that theory."

Clark, pressing for publication of most of the record of the committee's inquiry into the projected plane sales to France, was promised united support in this move by the Republican committeemen. They are Senators Austin, Nye of North Dakota, Holman of Oregon, Gurney of South Dakota, and Bridges of New Hampshire. All of them said, however, they did not favor divulging military secrets.

The Republicans announced they favored a policy of selling war supplies to all countries that are truly neutral. By implication they exempted Japan, although the neutrality act has not been invoked in the Sino-Japanese struggle. Plane manufacturers voluntaritly stopped sales to Japan last summer at Secretary Hulls request.

The Republicans proposed three stipulations to foreign sales: That the United States have priority use of all new devices and new developments, that it have the right to cancel any contract if it became apparent the sales would injure the United States, and that all sales be for cash.

In this they differed on two points with the policy said to have been outlined by President Roosevelt to the military committee on Tuesday.

The president told the committee frankly, members said later, that this country intended to help the democracies of Europe build up their defenses against threats of totalitarian aggression by selling them war planes and supplies.

He also was said to have made it plain that the administration intended the European democracies should have all the advantages of the latest developments here in planes, rather than having to take models which the army had put in use a year previously.

Higher Prices On Farm Products

COLUMBIA, Mo., Feb. 2.—(AP)—Missouri farm prices averaged higher on January 15 than a month before, with grains showing seasonal gains of 1 to 10 cents a bushel, Alfred C. Brittain, federal agricultural statistician, said today.

Cotton advanced three points during the month and cotton seed gained 20 cents a ton to show the only raise over a year ago.

Sheep prices declined 15 cents per 100 pounds while other livestock advanced. Dairy and poultry products averaged lower in the face of relatively high production levels. Hays declined.

Denial Any Of Stabilization Fund For Aid

None Used For Help To France In Planes Deal

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2.—(AP)—Secretary Morgenthau denied today the treasury's $2,000,000,000 stabilization fund had been used to help France or any foreign country buy military supplies or other merchandise in this country.

The secretary said:

"The stabilization fund has not been used directly or indirectly or in any way whatsoever to help any country make any purchase of merchandise."

The stabilization fund, created out of the profit on dollar devaluation in 1934, conducts foreign exchange market operations in an effort to stabilize the dollar in reference to foreign currencies.

Morgenthau said secrecy was necessary to the fund's operations, adding its usefulness would be lessened by the full publicity advocated by Senator Lodge (R-Mass) and others.

He declined to comment directly on a proposal of Lodge for an independent audit of the fund, but said such a resolution would reflect on the integrity of three treasury employes who audit the fund's accounts every year.

Without identifying the trio, Morgenthau said each had worked in the treasury for 27 to 29 years.

He expressed a hope the senate military committee would make public his testimony last week in which he explained what, if any, help he have a French air commission in buying airplanes in this country.

Regardless of the delicacy of some of the matters that pass through his hands, the treasury chief added, he was willing to have all hearings at which he testifies before congress made public.

He invited "any qualified committee of congress to look over our books," and said the treasury stood ready to answer congressional inquiries "24 hours a day."

Deplore Methods On Planes Sale

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2—(AP)—Nine Republican members of the house foreign affairs committee said in a statement today that they "deplore and protest the unneutral actions and secret methods employed by the president of the United States"in connection with the sale of airplanes to France.

"We urge the President to present all the facts openly to the American people and to uphold our traditional foreign policy of neutrality, non-intervention and peace," the representatives said.

The statement was signed by Representatives Fish (R-NY), Eaton (R-NJ), Rogers (R-Mass), Barton (R-NY), Chiperfield (R-Ill), Corbett (R-Penn), Vorys (R-Ohio), Stearns (R-NH) and Schiffler (R-W Va).

Would Make Ballots Cast Really Secret

Senate Speeds Pace As Bills Are Offered

Searcy Presents Six Measures

House Passes First Bill On An 8-Hour Day

JEFFERSON CITY, Feb. 2.—(AP) Sen. George Rozier, (R), Perryville, proposed a constitutional amendment today "to make Missouri's ballots secret in fact as well as in name" by eliminating the present practice and numbering each ballot.

"It has been repeatedly charged—and in many cases substantiated—that voters are being coerced because the numbered ballots make it possible for officials to know how they vote," declared Rozier, one of the three Republican senators.

His amendment would prevent any one in the employ of the federal, state or other divisions of government from serving as election officials and would provide for the opening of ballot boxes to be use in court cases involving election records.

Eleven Bills Offered

The senate stepped up its slow pace of initiating new legislation by introducing 11 bills, including six by Sen. L. N. Searcy (D), Eminence which put him far in the lead in individual bill production.

Among his six measures, "offered at the request of the Missouri Bankers Association," was one which would open the small loan business to banks and trust companies.

It would set an interest rate of 1¼ per cent monthly on loans of $2,000 and less. Under the present law banks must charge the legal 8 per cent yearly rate on such loans. The bill had the effect of placing four small loan bills before the legislature, one approved at an interest rate of three per cent and two other house bills which would fix the rate at 1½ per cent and one per cent. The present rate on loans of less than $300 is 2½ per cent per month.

The other Searcy bills would exempt employes of state bank and trust companies from the state unemployment compensation law, make the records of the state finance commissioner open to the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation, and eliminate the present requirement that banks and trust companies sell acquired real estate within six years, but require them to remove such property from its list of assets.

The senate adopted a broad interpretation of "revision bills" today, an action awaited almost since the start of the session. Some legislators thought final approval of the definition by both chambers would open the floodgates on new bills, many of which have been held back because of the uncertainty of revision legislation. Senators also approved a house resolution to release building funds at some state schools and other institutions.

Other senate bills:

By Sen. W. B. Whitlow (D) Fulton, to make the terms of city marshals and mayors four years instead of two.

By Sen. Joseph H. Brogan (D) St. Louis, to tighten the present law against carrying concealed weapons.

By Sen. Ray Mabee (R), Unionville, to "put teeth in the wife and child abandonment act" by placing the burden of support upon the father "regardless of whether his children may be receiving public aid."

Representative Farley continued his economy drive with introduction of a bill to pare all salaries paid by the state. The measure had 17 co-signers.

The reductions would be on this basis: Those receiving from $1,800 to $2,400 a year, 10 per cent; from $2,400 to $3,600, 15 per cent; from $3,600 to $4,800, 20 per cent; over $5,000, 25 per cent.

Representative Frank Lowry (R), Cape Girardeau, on the other hand, sent in a measure to increase the salaries paid Public Service Commissioners to $7,500 a year. The commission chairman now gets $5,500, the other four members $5,000. The bill would raise the body's general counsel from $4,500 to $5,000.

A bill sent in by Representative Wayne V. Slankard (R)„ Newton County, would require county courts in counties between 20,000 and 60,000 population to be in session five days a week.

First Bill Passed

JEFFERSON CITY, Feb. 2.—(AP)—The house today passed and sent to the senate its first bill—a measure to place eleemosynary employes on an 8-hour day.

The act was approved 95 to 28 after Rep. J. W. Farley (D) Platte County, attacked it as the "fore-runner to a lot of bills demanding more money."

"We came up here with a mandate from the people for economy," Farley protested, "and the first thing we do is pass a bill requiring an increase in appropriations."

Rep. L. C. Thedinger (D) St. Joseph, author of the bill, estimated it would add $695,000 every two years to the payrolls of the four state hospitals and the state institution at Marshall. The bill means 481 more jobs in eleemosynary institutions, he said.

The Mt. Vernon sanatorium, already under an 8-hour day, is exempt from the house bill. State hospital employes now work a 12-hour day.

Rep. Guy Abney (D) Marshall, speaking for the bill, said the state should not discriminate against any one class of employes, "who already are over-worked and under-paid."

New Snag For A Grand Jury

Troubles Not Yet Adjusted In Kansas City

KANSAS CITY, Feb. 2—(AP)—Circuit Judge Allen C. Southern's campaign on gambling here hit another snag today—a snag revolving about the drawing of the county grand jury panel.

A fellow-jurist — presiding Judge John F. Cook of the judicial circuit — blocked Judge Southern's order to a former clerk of the jury commissioners to attest to the records of the commissioners in the drawing of the 196 names for the grand jury panel.

The records of the meeting are considered a vital part of the gambling-hating judge's defense against an application of Jackson county's prosecuter, W. W. Graves, in the Missouri supreme court for a writ to stop the grand jury from proceeding.

Henry C. Kundert, who resigned as clerk of the jury commissioners the day after the panel was drawn, went to Judge Cook after he had been instructed by Southern to sign the panel records.

"In my estimation, you would be in contempt of the Missouri supreme court if you acted in the matter pertaining to the grand jury," Judge Cook told Kundert, "in view of the stop order issued by the court."

Meanwhile the county grand jury was in recess with instructions to report to Judge Southern's court tomorrow morning.

No indication when the supreme court would act on the writ sought by Graves — ignored by Judge Southern in the drive on gambling here—was apparent today.

An appearance of Maurice M. Milligan, United States district attorney, before a federal grand jury of Judge Albert L. Reeves today led to the belief the jury was preparing for its major task—the investigation of income tax evasions of Kansas City gamblers and racketeers. It was indicated that the jury would open the inquiry Feb. 14.

Graves, refused yesterday, demanded of Judge Southern again today the judge give him a transcript of the conversation between the circuit court jurist and Attorney General Roy McKittrick last week, McKittrick previously had been denied the transcript.

The Southern-McKittrick conversation ended with a request by the judge for the appointment of a special prosecutor by the attorney general. McKittrick later refused the request and went to St. Louis to investigate crime there.

The Jackson County prosecutor indicated his next step to force disclosure of the conversation would come in a mandamus action against the stenographer of Judge Southern's court.

Groundhog Sees His Shadow At Punxsutawney, Pa.

GOBBLER'S KNOB, PUNXSUTAWNEY, Pa., Feb. 2.—(AP)—Br'er groundhog—the Punxsutawney one—saw his shadow today to that, legend has it, presages six more weeks of winter.

Chiefs of the Punxsutawney groundhog lodge announced the woodchuck emerged from winter hibernation promptly at 9:19 a. m., (Eastern Standard Time). Several inches of snow covered the stony ridge above the woodchuck's hole.

The "sage of Gobbler's Knob," as woodchuck is known hereabouts, hustled back into his snug burrow, leaping o'er his shadow as he went, members of the lodge averred.

Government weather observer W. S. Brotzman said in Pittsburgh it was "all hooey."

"How is a groundhog," said he with disdain, "going to see his shadow when there isn't any sun? The sun wasn't shining today anywhere in this area."

The legend of Gobbler's Knob started 41 years ago when seven men got together, bought a keg of beer and climbed to the Knob to hunt groundhogs. They routed out one, fried it in butter and ate it.

They liked the jaunt so much they founded a club that eventually grew into an organization of 500, including many notables.

Over in the eastern part of the state, their are rival groundhog "prophets" at Quarryville and another in the Lehigh Valley at Allentown.

The Quarryville lodgemen, as custom dictates, pilgrimaged at dawn to their woodchuck's hole but they will not announce the forecast until tonight.

Lodge members at Quarryville voted Vice President John Garner an honorary member this year because "we wanted to honor an outstanding Texan."

Reply Brief By Missouri Pacific

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2.—(AP)—The Missouri Pacific Railroad told the Interstate Commerce Commission today that it had "the only plan" of which there is general agreement for reorganization of the carrier.

The Missouri Pacific's lawyers filed a brief in reply to briefs submitted by other parties in the reorganization proceedings.

"The numerous exceptions and supporting briefs which have been filed herein," today's brief said, "demonstrate clearly that the railroads comprising the Missouri Pacific system can never be reorganized under section 77 (of the bankruptcy act) except upon the basis of a plan developed by negotiation and agreement.

"Regardless of all other considerations, the ultimate controlling fact is that whatever plan is approved by the commission must receive the favorable vote of security holders before it can be made effective. * * *

"The debtor's modified plan is the only plan that has been devised during the six years of these proceedings upon which there is any kind of general agreement among the parties."

The reply brief urged that the present stockholders be issued warrents for the purchase of stock in the reorganized company. It said the value of the property justified participation of present stockholders in the new company.

Examiner R. H. Jewell has prepared a proposed plan of reorganization which would eliminate present stockholders from participation in the reorganized company.

Bill To Outlaw 'Salary Buyers'

Is Tagged For Passage As It Goes To House

JEFFERSON CITY, Feb. 2.—(AP) A bill to outlaw "salary buyers" and boost to three per cent the legal monthly rate on small loans was tagged for passage by a house committee today.

The bill sponsored by 78 members under the generalship of Speaker J. G. Christy (D), Festus, came through a hectic public hearing last night, defended as "a death blow to money lenders" and attacked as a "guise to legalize excessive and extortionate charges by small loan companies."

Representatives of organized labor, better business bureaus and bar associations spoke for the bill. They were opposed by Charles M. Hay and two other St. Louis lawyers.

Hay argued the present 2½ per cent monthly interest rate was exhorbitant. "A proposal to increase that rate to three per cent is tantamount to a proposal to suppress illegal extortion with legalized extortion," he said.

"But you say we must get rid of the salary buyers," he continued. "To that I answer 'yes, emphatically so,' but you must do more than that. You must destroy the illegal loan shark and the legal loan shark as well. You have an opportunity here to destroy both. In my judgment the (legal interest rate may well be brought to 1½ per cent."

Won Case In Court

George Gisler, Kansas City lawyer and chairman of the citizens' anti-loan-shark council, told of investigations he had made of "3,000 victims of salary buyers, victims who are forced to pay 10 per cent of their salary every pay-day as interest on a loan." As a witness he presented Dewey Tipton, Kansas City, who said he had paid $1,700 in return for $100 borrowed 10 years ago. Gisler finally took his case to court and won it.

Gisler, Christy and other proponents said the only reason for boosting the present legal rate was to make small loans profitable to legitimate loan companies so that wage earners would not be forced to "deal with the salary buyers." The approved bill would place them under supervision of the state finance department so that they could not exceed the legal interest rate.

Another house committee yesterday killed a "shotgun motion" proposal which would have permitted the filing of motions for new trials in criminal cases without citing specific trial errors.. The measure, twice passed in previous sessions only to meet executive vetoes, was dropped in favor of a substitute allowing for an extension of 30 days in the time to file new trial motions.

Three state departments heads appeared before the house appropriations committee to protest slashes made in their budgest by Gov. Lloyd C. Stark The trio—Secretary of State Dwight H. Brown, Treasurer Robert W. Winn and Auditor Forrest Smith—said they could not operate the next two years on sums recommended by Stark. Stark cut amounts ranging from $100,000 to $500,000 off the departmental budgets.

Relief Bill Of $725,000,000 To President

Final Approval For Measure For The WPA

To Carry Through To Next June 30

Compromise In Senate Is Given Ready Sanction

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2.—(AP)—Congress gave final approval today to a $725,000,000 relief appropriation to carry WPA through June 30. The measure now goes to the White House.

The house completed congressional action on the bill by going along with the senate on compromise provisions designed to take politics out of relief and discarding an amendment it originally had accepted to provide that WPA should make no differentials in excess of 25 per cent for the same type of work in different areas.

The differentials amendment was tossed aside by a roll call vote, which Speaker Bankhead announced as 252 to 140.

The $725,000,000 — $150,000,000 less than President Roosevelt recommended—is intended to keep WPA operating through June 30. The bill contains a provision, however, that the President may ask for more money in the event an emergency arises.

C. L. Hanley Presents Kiwanis Report

C. L. Hanley presented the 1938 Kiwanis achievement report to the local club at its noon meeting in Bothwell hotel Thursday. The report embraced the club's activities during the past year. Guy T. Callendar presided as program chairman.

J. T. Alexander, W. R. Courtney, Abe Rosenthal and Mrs. Nellie Monegan presented an instrumental number. Burney Morriss sang two solos, with Miss Dorothy Bockleman as accompanist.

Auto and Coal Truck Figure In Collision

A 1938 Chevrolet automobile driven by Henry Blane of the Sedalia Mill Products Co., and a coal truck collided at Tenth street and Harrison avenue Thursday morning, doing damage to the Chevrolet and slight damage to the truck.

Mr. Blane received bruises and is believed to be suffering from a slight concussion of the brain. He was taken to his home in Knob Noster.

Miss Margaret Looney who accompanied him also received bruises about her body. Her injuries were slight.

Vote Special Levy For Longwood Road District

There were nine votes for and none against the 25 cent levy for road tax in the special election held Saturday in the Longwood Special Road district number 4, according to the count made Wednesday by the county cleerk and judges.

Groundhog Sees His Shadow Here

If you are believers in the story of the groundhog Sedalia and Pettis County will have six weeks of winter weather, for Mr. Groundhog, if he ventured forth Thursday certainly saw his shadow.

The temperature at 7 a. m. was 22 degrees above zero, and 32 at 12 noon.

A Sedalian, who insists that signs never fail, reports that we will have bad weather about Sunday because there were three stars in the circle around the moon Wednesday night. The number of stars in the circle, he said, indicate how many days there will be before bad weather sets in.

France Seeks A 'Border Truce'

Insurgents In Claim Pivotal Town Taken

By CHARLES S. FOLTZ, Jr.

PERPIGNAN, France, Feb. 2—(AP)—While French authorities worked for a "border truce" to avert a Spanish government retreat into France the Spanish insurgents reported at noon today they had occupied the pivotal town of Berga.

Berga is 23 miles south of Puigcerda, a Catalonian border town and gateway into France, but connected with it only by a circuitous highway linked with a principal inland road to the border just above Ripoll.

With the prevailing insurgent campaign shoving government forces north toward the border, French troop reinforcements were moving up from the other side to block by force, if necessary, the threatened government stampede into France.

Three battalions arrived at Perpignan from central France and officers came from a dozen regiments to prepare the way for thousands more men.

French authorities considered the border truce idea a solution which might be acceptable both to Franco and the Spanish government.

If Franco's troops conquer Gerona province, border sources said, the Spanish government's chances of holding out in Catalonia will fall from their present low to almost zero.

For Orderly Evacuation

Once the government has gone, French sources said, Franco might agree to a truce not only to permit the orderly evacuation of noncombatants into France but to give the remaining soldiers a chance to surrender with their arms.

Such a truce would leave a band of territory running along the Pyrenees and foothills from Puigcerda to the sea, the area to be supplied with food from France for an agreed period before occupation by the insurgents.

Latest French estimates placed at 45,000 the number of refugees who had entered France since the fall of Barcelona. Also 10,000 deserters from the Spanish government army were said to have crossed the border.

At Port Bou, on the Spanish side of the border south of Perpignan, 300 foreign volunteers mustered out of the Spanish government army were said to have seized machine-guns from fleeing government deserters and barricaded themselves in the town.

$400,000 Allotted For Electrification Here

The Rural Electrification Administration Wednesday allotted to the Central Missouri Electric Corporation, of Sedalia, $400,000 to build 395 miles of rural lines, to serve 878 customers in Pettis and Saline counties, according to a message received Wednesday night from Congressman R. T. Wood to his friend, Emmett Sullivan.

According to the project plans, there will be 175 miles of lines serving 390 members in Pettis county and 220 miles serving 488 members in Saline county.

The minimum monthly bill, according to the R. E. A. will be $3.25, which amount will pay for forty kilowatt hours of current, and, they state, that will furnish the average amount needed for lights, radio, washing machine and iron, depending on the size of the family.

The $400,000 will take care of the construction of the main lines and the spur line to property, up to the meter, to all farms within 1,000 feet of he main lines.

Already three utilities and municipal plants have bid on the current, and their bids were sent into Washington with the project plans.

The project is sponsored by the Central Missouri Electric Corporation, composed of 878 members. To this group will be added 500 members in Cooper county, where 235 miles of lines have been mapped out. An engineer is now mapping out Moniteau and Morgan counties, which will also later become part of this group.

The first move towards rural electrification here was made last fall when E. E. Karns, with the examining division of the R. E. A. met with a group of Pettis and Saline county residents, eight from each county. The local members formed a corporation. T. R. Raines, of this county was elected president; L. T. Stouffer, of Saline county, vice-president; Mrs. Edwin Heffernan, Pettis county, secretary and treasurer. Henry C. Salveter is attorney for the project, representing all the counties. John Sneed is coordinator and Mr. Hume, survey leader in Saline county.

The localities through which the lines will run was determined by the applications which were made by persons desiring electricity on their farms.

Project maps, in the office of J. U. Morris, county agent, show that the lines come into Pettis county about Longwood, cross between that place and Hughesville, run on a spur to Tiedeville, from Hughesville to Houstonia, a line in the Postal neighborhood, south to Hughesville, to the Bothwell Lodge neighborhood, along near the Boonville road to Newland, follow a spur on the road north to Beaman, east of Sedalia on to Valda, then to the Quisenberry and Green Ridge communities, down old highway 65 to Manila, and down old highway 52 to Mora.

The home owners will purchase their own fixtures and appliances.

Criticism By Ickes Brings On Argument

Cox Asserts It Brought Dies In Prominence

Conference Held By President

Sheppard Gives Views On Old Age Benefits

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2 (AP)—Rep. Dies (D-Tex.) won the first round today of his fight for an extension of life and additional funds for his committee on un-American activities.

After three days of hearings, the House Rules Committee approved a resolution continuing Dies' committee until Jan. 3, 1940. Dies had asked an extension until 1941.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2—(AP)—Rep. Cox (D-Ga) asserted in a stormy house committee hearing today that Secretary Ickes' criticism of Chairman Dies of the house un-American committee boomeranged to make the Texas Democrat "an outstanding national figure."

Arguing with Rep. Hill (D-Wash) before the house rules committee, Cox said the cabinet member "went on the stump to attack Mr. Dies." This, Cox said, was "perfectly outrageous."

Told by Hill he had no right to criticize Ickes, Cox flared:

"Why not? He certainly had a right to answer. Whether they mean to or not, they have made Dies an outstanding national figure.'"

Ickes once called Dies an "outstanding zany.' They were then disputing Dies' conduct as chairman of the committee investigating un-American activities. The rules committee is considering revival of the committee, and house approval of continuing its inquiry was considered a foregone conclusion on Capitol hill.

Action was likely later today, after a closed session to hear Dies answer various criticism.

Minimizes Danger

Ickes, himself, contributed to the day's news with an assertion "the United States is not in danger of entering a foreign war under this administration.'

President Roosevelt discussed "world affairs" and "technical development" in connection with the army defense needs in a white house conference with the house subcommittee which will frame the war department appropriations bill.

There continued on Capitol hill an argument over whether this countrys aviation industry could produce enough planes to give the army 3,000 new ones, and at the same time manufacture them for sale to France and other European powers.

Senator Wheeler (D-Mont) advocated government fixing of farm prices, in comment at a hearing by the senate agriculture committee.

The senate elections committee decided to consider comprehensive legislation designed to prevent coercion of government employes in elections.

Representative Sheppard (D-Calif) proposed today, as a "highly imperative" move, to substitute the so-called general welfare plan for the present old age benefits of the social security system.

The Californian is author of the general welfare bill, which contemplates a minimum pension of $30 and a maximum of $60 a month for all persons over 60. The payments would be financed by a two per cent tax on gross incomes over $100 a month.

As soon as Sheppard finished, house committee members started trying to pick holes in his case.

If $60 a month were paid to an estimated 12,450,000 persons over 60, Representative Boehne (D-Ind) remarked, the annual payments would reach $8,928,000,000 a year.

Press Demand On Impeachment

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2.—(AP)—Rep. Thomas (R-NJ) presenting what he termed "new evidence," urged the house judiciary committee today to support his resolution asking impeachment of Secretary Perkins.

Thomas explained his charges against Miss Perkins and two of her aides at a closed meeting of the committee. Neither he nor committeemen would detail the nature of his testimony.

Bothwell Hospital Notes

Mrs. C. B. McFarland, of Fristoe, Lawrence Goetz, Cole Camp and Deo Lane, Knob Noster, were admitted for medical treatment.

Audits Income Returns

John H. Kroll, state tax income field agent, is in the city making a detail audit of the returns. He will be here about a week and is working in the office of the county assessor in the court house.

Stalin's Lady and Judy O'Hitler

With every passing day, National Socialist Germany and Socialist Russia look more and more alike.

To say this is to risk annoying the partisans of both. But partisans of either are by definition prejudiced. Let's look at recent developments with unprejudiced eyes.

* * *

In Hitler's letter to Walther Funk in which the latter displaced Dr. Schacht, Hitler directed Funk specifically to transform the reichsbank "into a German bank of issue unconditionally subjected to the sovereignty of the state, in conformity with National Socialist principles."

And so it is in Russia. So, in fact, Father Coughlin insists that it be in the United States.

Next Hitler dissolved the reich league of officers, breaking up the officer caste which was the backbone of the imperial army, and making the officers corps simply an arm of the Nazi party.

And so it is in Russia. There, too, the army is merely a tool of the single legal party, the Communist.

The advent of Funk is regarded as certain to mean even more iron-bound control over foreign trade by the German government, the handling of its exports and imports by a single government agency.

And so it is in Russia.

The spur is being applied to the German worker in the frantic effort to keep up the arms pace and still manufacture goods for export in exchange for imports which mean life itself to the people. No strike or other interruption of national production is tolerated.

And so it is in Russia.

* * *

The many similarities apparent from the start between the two countries, each ruled by a single party which ruthlessly crushes all opposition, increase with every new move of the German government. The "socialist" side of the Hitler regime, always part of the "patter" with which it was sold to Germany, comes to the surface more clearly each day, as bare necessity forces Hitler to take over profits and assume an iron control over what remains of private capital.

True, each still speaks a different ideological language; each swears undying hatred of the other. But what is important is deeds, not words, and novelist Louis Bromfield is not the first to see the possibility of a future alliance between Germany and Russia, which would completely alter the world as any living man has known it.

Better Than Gold

Some people think the American dollar is better than gold.

In recent European transactions, the Alexander Hamilton Institute learns, the "multiple currency clause" has been revived. This gives the creditor the choice of receiving payment in his own currency or in United States dollars. Specifically a Dutch loan to the French railroads is mentioned, in which the recent renewal of the loan carried the dollar clause, whereas the original loan had a gold clause.

European jitters are a factor here. Recent declines in the American stock market may have been due to inflation fears in Europe, as Europeans hastened to cash their American holdings and get them into European stocks in which they expected an inflationary rise. In just the same way, certain European financiers now cling to the American dollar as a better bet for security than gold itself, arguing that a war might well cause gold embargoes which would collapse the metal's price, thus making dollars a better bet. This also implies considerable European faith that further dollar devaluation is not feared.

It indicates that at least some Europeans have but little faith in their own prospects, little faith even in gold, but more faith than in either in the American currency. Should Americans themselves have less?

$350 Moratorium

For once, the public gets a break out of bickering between party members in congress.

When a Republican attempted to use the time-honored privilege of "extension of remarks" by asking for a reprint in the Congressional Record of an anti-Roosevelt magazine article by his colleague, Bruce Barton, Democrats objected. So thereafter, Republicans objected whenever Democrats asked the same privilege.

Estimated saving to the taxpayer, $350. Not much in these billion-dollar days, but something. Congressmen pledged to economy can't do better than to set an example themselves.

There Are Still Heroes

It is not too late to raise a hat to Capt. Frank H. Spurr, master of the Esso Baytown, and to his boat crew who saved the survivors of the British flying-boat Cavalier. Captain Spurr handled his ship with cool precision and flawless judgment. Anderson, Minor, Smith, Tomaschek, Brady, Goodwin and Taylor, the men of the lifeboat were equally skillful and courageous.

They have all added a thrilling chapter to the saga of the sea and the long traditions of the American merchant marine.

GOP Banquet On McKinley Day Was Held

J. Grant Frye In Address For The Annual Event

Assails Practices Of Democrats

Hundred And Twenty-Five At Repast At The Bothwell

J. Grant Frye, of Cape Girardeau prominent member of the Republican party and the American Legion, addressing one hundred twenty-five Republicans assembled at the fourteenth annual McKinley day banquet at Hotel Bothwell Saturday night, declared that there would not be anything done about conditions in Kansas City, about which there has been so much publicity recently. "Roy McKittrick is looking for a way out," declared Frye. "Politics will remain in a snarl and everybody will be glad nothing can be done. There is too much power in Kansas City," he said, "and McKittrick can't and won't do anything."

Scoring the Democratic party for some of its practices Mr. Frye had the following to say relative to the recent demonstration by about 2,000 share croppers in southeast Missouri. "Several investigations and various interpretations have been made, each investigation and report has been colored from the viewpoint of the investigator.

Talks On Sharecroppers

"Basically, despite reports to the contrary" he said, "there have been some evictions of surplus sharecroppers and farm laborers in this district. The demonstrators were not all of that class. The fact is that the government cotton curtailment program of decreasing acreage approximately one-half had inevitably tended to create a surplus of sharecroppers and tenants and farm laborers in the cotton region of approximately one-third of the population.

"Simultaneously with this situation the government has given landowner checks for this idle acreage. If the tenant stays on the land he must share in that check. In the eyes of the law, despite the feudal overlordship of the government, the landowner still owns the land and has the right to say who shall live on it. He doesn't want to share the check, and other things being equal it is more remunerative to boot off the extra unneeded sharecroppers and tenants.

"Then simultaneously with these facts, the government set up a resettlement administration program at LaForge in New Madrid county in the heart of the cotton belt of southeast Missouri. The government took the taxpayers' money and built houses, bought stock and machinery and set up a so-called community and took a few of these sharecroppers and farm tenants, both Negroes and whites, and put them in it. There was a feeling among a great group of the surplus sharecroppers and tenants that if they put on the proper demonstration they too would get a four room white house and would have money given to them for an indefinite term. Then along with these forces and factors there have been changes by the landowners of that section, and the truth of it, I am here neither to affirm or deny, that government agents themselves connected with the resettlement administration project at LaForge encouraged, aided and abetted and perhaps promoted, at least in part, the demonstration. There has been plenty of smoke and I think it is reasonable and fair to infer that there is some fire."

W. D. Smith Toastmaster

Mr. Frye was introduced by W. D. Smith, chairman of the Pettis county committee, who was toastmaster of the affair.

The invocation was asked by the Rev. H. H. Heidbreder, pastor of the St. Paul Lutheran church and community singing was led by J. T. Alexander, with Miss Thelma Young at the piano.

There were vocal selections by a male quartet, I. H. Reed, J. T. Alexander Abe Rosenthal and Burney Moriss, accompanied by Miss Dorothy Bockelman, and a solo by Mr. Morriss

In the absence of Miss Cleta Smith, of St. Louis, who was to have given the eulogy on McKinley, it was given by Ray Taubert, of Warrensburg.

Out of town guests introduced by Mr. Smith were: Frank F. Moerschel, St. Louis; E. J. Wilson, Kansas City; Manvel H. Davis, Kansas City; Tom Douglas Bolivar; John Fegi, St. Louis; Geo. W. Lodge and Frank Delmer, Bolivar; Chas. W. Fear, Jefferson City, A. J. Bollinger, Versailles; V. F. Carpenter, Versailles; C. F. Stockard and Gregory Stockard, both of Jefferson City.

Manvel Davis extended an invitation to the guests to attend the Lincoln Day banquet in Kansas City, February 12.

Mr. Frye was accompanied to Sedalia by Oscar C. Kaiser of Cape Girardeau.

A 2000 horsepower motor, capable of creating winds up to 400 miles an hour, has been erected. It is expected that temperatures up to 200 degrees Fahrenheit are expected to develop in the wind tunnel.

Hefty Banker Fails To Dodge FBI

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Jan. 28.—Federal agents today arrested a 250-pound missing Iowa bank cashier as he was taking treatments to reduce his weight in a private sanitarium near Little Rock.

H. E. Andersen, chief of the Little Rock office of the federal bureau of investigation, announced the man's arrest and said he readily admitted he was Harold John Cook Kriebs,. 58, wanted for embezzlement of funds from the First National Bank of DeWitt, Ia.. and that he had taken $83,000 of the bank's money.

He gave up to the agents $41,200 in currency and a $5,000 cashier's check and disclosed where an additional $10,000 to $15,000 was hidden, Andersen announced.

Andersen, who said the FBI had been on Krieb's trail for three weeks, commented:

"A 250-pound man couldn't lose himself very easily."

Kriebs waived arraignment before U. S. Commissioner W. M. Rankin and was placed under a $50,000 bond for removal to the southern district of Iowa where he is charged specifically with misappropriation of $41,000 of his bank's funds.

Park Lagoon Be Improved

Be Stocked With Fish Soon As Project Is Completed

Work will begin next Saturday on a $33,000 WPA project on the lagoon at Liberty park, and after the lake, banks, dam and island have been completely renovated and the lake filled with from three to five feet of water, it will probably be used as a fish rearing pond, to raise little fish for the Pettis county streams.

The stone wall will be replaced with a concrete wall, the dam rebuilt, the present steep banks sloped uniformly away from the waters edge back about twenty feet and rip-rapped with stones at the water's edge. The water bed will be cleaned out and deepened at each end, and arranged to hold from three to five feet of water. Work will also be done on the island, which will be beautified and landscaped, as will the entire surroundings.

After the work has all been completed and stocked with the little fish it will be under the supervision of the state conservation commission.

The work will be under the supervision of E. O. Hilton, WPA supervisor, with the co-operation of the city engineer, Elmer Herrman, all under the general direction of the Sedalia Park board.

The greater part of the $33,000 to be spent will be provided by the government. The force to begin work Saturday will be small, but will be gradually increased as needed.

Probate Judges Group Meets

A committee of probate judges, with former governor Guy B. Park as special counsel. met in the office of probate Judge J. E. Smith Saturday, to talk over the test suit pending in the courts regulating fees for probate judges.

Members of the committee here were, Glendy B. Arnold, St. Louis, A. Evan Hughes, Clayton, George S. Starrett, Columbia, John H. Fairman, Springfield, A. B. Duncan, St. Joseph, Milton Hull, Maryville, Tom L. Parrish, Jefferson City, Miss Mildred V. Hogan, clerk of the court at Jefferson City, and Frank E. Morris, Clerk of the St. Louis court, and Judge J. E. Smith, of Sedalia.

This committee was appointed by the State Association of Probate Judges to assist in the prosecution of the suit, which originally started in this county when Forrest Smith, state auditor, and Judge Smith differed in their interpretation of the laws governing fees to be paid the judges. Judge Smith took the matter to circuit court where Judge Dimmit Hoffman ruled in his favor. By agreement, which ever side won, the other side would appeal and thus have the matter settled for the future. The appeal is now pending.

WILLIAM H. RUSSELL FOUNDED PONY EXPRESS

William H. Russell, "Napoleon of the West" and founder and developer of the Pony Express, was born on January 31, 1812, one hundred and twenty-seven years ago this week, in Burlington, Vermont. His father died soon after the war of 1812, and later his mother and step-father moved to Missouri, where young Russell began work. By the late 1840's he had entered the freighting business, carrying government contracts, and some years later, with W. B. Waddell and Alexander Majors, he formed a freighting partnership that became internationally known as the firm of Russell, Majors and Waddell.

The growing importance of California both politically and economically stimulated the desire of both the North and South for a means of quicker coast-to-coast communication. In 1854 a United States senator, William Gwin of California, made an overland trip on horseback from San Francisco to Washington, D. C., accompanied part way by B. F. Ficklin, general superintendent for the firm of Russell, Majors and Waddell. During the journey Ficklin is said to have confided his plans for establishing closer transit service between the Missouri river and the West coast, and the Senator quickly became an advocate of the plan. The following January, Senator Gwin introduced a bill establishing weekly letter express between St. Louis and San Francisco, but the bill was killed in the Senate. During the next few years Congress was busy with the slavery question; the cross-country express plan was practically forgotten.

Overland Express

In the winter of 1859-60, however, Russell was called to Washington to discuss some government freight contracts, and while there he met Senator Gwin, who convinced him of the need of an overland express along the central route to the coast, one which could be kept open all winter. Russell fell in with the plan at once, forseeing that if his firm could demonstrate the feasibility of such a route they could be sure of a virtual monopoly for carrying transcontinental mail.

In spite of the disapproval of his partners, Russell got them to undertake the venture, and soon the Central Overland California and Pike's Peak Express Company was organized. After several months of preparations, the first Pony express riders left stations at Sacramento, California, and St. Joseph, Missouri, simultaneously, on April 3, 1860. Relays of riders who were the pick of the frontiersmen rode across desert, mountains, and plains, bringing the mail from the Missouri river to California in ten days. The Express excited great enthusiasm among the people, and Russell became the man of the hour.

His triumph was all too short, though, for on December 25, 1860, came the news of a fraud in Washington that startled the country. The firm of which Russell was president was in debt, and in order to help out the financial situation Russell had journeyed to Washington to attempt to collect from the government what it owed on mail contracts. The Federal treasury was at the time empty. In order to secure funds, the secretary of war, John B. Floyd, abstracted bonds from the Indian Trust Fund amounting to some $870,000, and acceptances given by Floyd to Russell were substituted. When this scheme was known to Congress an investigation was immediately begun, and Floyd, Russell, and an official of the Interior department who had secured the money, were indicted by both Congress and the courts of the District of Columbia, for conspiracy together to defraud the United States government.

Russell futilely protested his innocence. The criminal courts of the District of Columbia, dropped their indictments, apparently turning the case over to Congress, where it was temporarily lost in the Civil war crisis that came up. Russell was succeeded as president of the Express company at the next meeting of the Board of Directors by Bela M. Hughes. Russell's guilt or innocence is still a matter of debate.

The completion of the Pacific telegraph in October, 1861, spelled doom for the Pony Express, and the following year the company was sold to Ben Holladay, famous stage line promoter. The Express was a complete failure commercially, and lost a fortune for each of the partners.

Russell, after disposing of his interest in the Express, went to New York, attempting to regain his fortune in speculative enterprises. He became ill in the summer of 1872, and was taken to the home of a son in Palmyra, Missouri, where he died on September 10 of that year

Challenge On The TVA Is Turned Back

Private Power Companies Lose Court Move

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30.—(AP)—The supreme court turned back today a challenge by 14 private power companies of the constitutionality of the power program of the Tennessee Valley Authority.

In a decision delivered by Justice Roberts, the tribunal held that the utilities held no "standing to maintain the suit."

This decision enabled the government to continue construction of a series of dams in the Tennessee Valley and sell surplus power produced.

Justices Butler and McReynolds dissented, contending that the decision "goes too far."

Justice Reed did not participate in the decision. As solicitor general he had argued a previous TVA case before the tribunal.

Other Actions Taken

Among other actions the court:

Held constitutional the 1935 California use-tax law as applied to articles purchased outside the state and brought into California by a corporation doing an interstate business.

Ruled the National Bituminous Coal Commission may disclose cost data submitted by 19 coal companies.

Agreed to review a decision upholding validiay of a 1937 North Dakota law prohibiting the operation of motion picture theatres owned by distributors of films. The statute had been assailed by Paramount Pictures, Inc., of New York and subsidies.

Held constitutional the 1935 Federal Tobacco Inspection Act. (It provides for federal inspection of tobacco sold at designated markets provided this is approved by two-thirds of those voting in a referendum of growers selling on the market.)

Refused to pass upon a California tribunal's decision that activities of a San Francisco group health organization violated the state medical practices act. (The California supreme court held that the Pacific Health Corporation, in selecting and paying licensed physicians to care for members, was itself practicing medicine in violation of the state law."

Ordered reargument February 27 on two cases from Kentucky and Kansas involving the right of a state to ratify, after once rejecting, the pending constitutional amendment to abolish child labor.

Ordered reargument on the same date on litigation involving a government request for delay in distribution og $586,000 to commission men at the Kansas City stockyards until Secretary Wallace could pass anew on the reasonableness of charges made from 1933 to 1937.

Pair Arrested As Holdup Suspects

Guy Winn and James Keith were arrested late Saturday night in a home on East Fourth street, and Monday morning charges of robbery were filed against them by Prosecuting Attorney Frank W. Hayes.

William Rasa, going east on Third street about 10:30 o'clock Saturday night, was "strong-armed" by two men, just east of Hancock street, and a leather wallet taken from him. He was held by one of the men, while the other went through his pockets and took the wallet. Finding nothing in it but a social security number, they discarded it.

Rasa watched the two as they walked off and followed them around the corner of Fourth street. He heard a door slam, and believed they had gone into a home nearby. Going to the East Sedalia Fire Station Rasa called police headquarters.

Officer Herman Fischer answered the call, heard Rasa's story, and walked around the neighborhood looking in the windows of the homes where there were lights. In one of the homes he saw two men, Rasa identified them as the two who had held him up and Fischer placed them under arrest.

Extension Club Of Prairie Ridge Met

The regular monthly meeting of Whittier Parent-Teacher association was held in the school auditorium Friday afternoon. Meeting was called to order by the president, Mrs. J. G. Johnson and the group joined in singing 'America."

The devotional was given by Mrs. Allen Coward.

The regular business was transacted. All officers and committees gave enccur ging reports.

Two plays were given by the second grade children under the direction of Miss Bernice Wood, which were enjoyed by all. Miss Myers' room presented "The Snow Mother." Miss Laudenberger's room "Around The Clock."

The topic for discussion was "Art." Mrs. Lon Leslie spoke on "The Art of Democracy' and Miss Angel Ihrig on "Why Teach Art?" Miss Shaffer told of e interest she had always had in having art taught in Whittier school and some of the fine results that had come from same.

Mrs. Wendell, an art teacher in Sedalia was present and she told something about what art had meant to her and would mean to our children and showed some of her beautiful work.

The teachers joined in the discussion and were enthusiastic over results obtained through teaching art and of the pupils' interest in it.

In closing, our president announced the Founder's Day program to be held on the evening of February 17 at the school.

D.A.R. Elect Delegates To National Meet

The Osage chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution met at the home of Mrs. J. C. Saunders, 1001 South Vermont avenue, Saturday afternoon, with the regent, Miss Nina Harris, presiding.

The meeting opened with the impressive D. A. R. ritual, followed by the business of the month, announcements, reports and the election of delegates to the national D. A. R. congress to be held in Washington, D. C., April 17-21.

Miss Harris, the regent, is a delegate ex officio, and Miss Maurine Harris was elected as the delegate for the chapter.

Alternates selected were Miss Jessie Blair, Mrs. A. J. Campbell, Miss Martha Letts, Mrs. Grace Young, Mrs. F. L. Leach, Miss Susan Hurlbut, Mrs. A. L. Shortridge, Mrs. I. E. Day and Mrs. Olive Penquite.

Standing, the members paid silent tribute to the memory of Mrs. Arthur Maltby, of Kansas City, a former member of the chapter, who recently died.

The paper of the afternoon, "Travel In Colonial Days," was read by Miss Jessie Blair. It was written and delivered in her usual charming style, and the descriptions of the insecure, but romantic Colonial modes of travel proved interesting.

Preceding Miss Blair's talk, Mrs. L. E. Heffernan entertainingly reviewed the D. A. R. magazine.

At the close of the program, delicious refreshments were served to the large number of members who attended the meeting.

Royal Neighbors Install Officers

The Royal Neighbors of America, Violet Camp No. 607, met in the Woodmen-Maccabee hall Friday night with forty-five members and two visitors present. During the business session the state supervisor, Mrs. May Moore, of Kansas City, installed the recently elected officers, assisted by Mrs. R. W. Dow, district deputy.

Little Dolores Hains and Barbara Jean Rodewald, dressed as George and Martha Washington, announced the officers as they entered the room, which was appropriately decorated in George Washington Day decorations.

Those installed were: Oracle, Mrs. Bessie Nicholas; vice-oracle, Mrs. Georgia Roach; past-oracle, Mrs. Anna Weedin; chancellor, Mrs. Minnie Burger; recorder, Mrs. R. L. Lawson; receiver, Mrs. Amelia Janes; marshal, Mrs. Lulu Terrell; assistant marshal, Mrs. Joe Marksbury; inner sentinel, Mrs. Martha Roef who was elected for the thirty-third year; outer sentinel, Mrs. Mary Strickler, manager for three years, Mrs. Laura Chambers; physician, Dr. Gordon Stauffacher; musician, Mrs. Bertha Heck; Faith, Mrs. Ruth Hains; Courage, Mrs. Emma Strickler; Modesty, Mrs. Gehlken; Unselfishness, Mrs. Clara Twyman; Endurance, Mrs. Iva Frick; Flagbearer, Mrs. Samantha Bush; Captain of the Degree staff, Mrs. Elizabeth Roef.

Mrs. Lora Rogers and Mrs. Amanda Close, as oracle and chaplain respectively, assisted in the installation.

Talk Is Given To Teachers

R. V. Shores Speaker To Association Here Saturday

R. V. Shores, assistant superintendent of the Kansas City schools, addressed the Sedalia Community Teachers Association at Smith-Cotton high school Saturday morning, and left some very practical ideas with the teachers who were present. He was introduced by Heber U. Hunt, superintendent of the Sedalia schools.

Mr. Shores outlined some of the things they were attempting to do in Kansas City, and complimented the Sedalia teachers on the success with which they are meeting their teaching problems. He gave his ideas concerning today's education, its theories and practices and mentioned specific subjects. He mentioned reading, arithmetic, speech, safety, physical education, industrial arts and homemaking.

It does little good, he said, to have a child meet a speech specialist, perhaps take a special course, then go back to a regular class and take up his old habits. The daily watchfulness in a class room, he said, does more good than any other method, unless it is to take speech work in summer study, under the guidance of one instructor.

Teachers, he said, are more and more becoming conscious of the fact that they must specialize, particularly in reading, which is the basis of education, music and physical education. A specialist comes into a class room once a week, but unless the teacher is familiar with the work she cannot be helpful to the children the other days of the week. She must know how to carry on the work begun by the specialist, and her daily watchfulness over the students means much to them. The successful teacher watches the individual pupil, recognizes their differences, and handles them accordingly, said Mr. Shores.

Games and Rhythm

"Physical education, he said, has changed from calisthenics to games and hythm to specially trained teachers in the elementary schools. Girls are taking social dancing and the teachers are also taking social dancing, for there is no doubt, he said, that the dancing question, even among the young pupils, must be met and there must be some conrol over it.

The homemaking situation includes not only cooking, he said, but consumers' responsibility, and the students must be made consumer conscious.

Racket Trial Witness Ends Life Sunday

NEW YORK, Jan. 30—The spectre of George Weinberg, ailing and fearful one-time gangland "strong-arm" who killed himself yesterday, lingered today over the policy racket trial of Tammany district leader, James J. Hines.

District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey announced Weinberg, on whose shifty testimony he learned in the miscarried first trial of Hines, still was a witness in the second and the long transcript of his testimony, although its veracity was doubted by the judge himself, will be read by an assistant prosecutor.

The glowering admitted perjurer and guilty-pleading state's witness against Hines was on the stand three and a half days and at one point in his testimony Hines leaped angrily from the counsel table and shouted: "You lie."

Weinberg was a brother of Bo Weinberg, whose body—he and the rest of gangland believed—was encased in concrete and dropped into the East river as a token of underworld displeasure.

Fear of a similar fate for himself, his cronies believed, or a severe stomach ailment, in the opinion of Dewey, drove him to snatch up a pistol from the Dewey investigator's coat and shoot himself through the head.

The shooting took place at the pretentious hideaway in suburban White Plains which Dewey had rented as a sanctuary for Weinberg, J. Richard (Dixie) Davis one-time kid mouthpiece for the notorious (Dutch Schultz gang which Hines is accused of protecting for pay; and big Harry Schoenhaus, another Schultz henchman. They were held in "protective custody."

All three pleaded guilty to charges similar to those against Hines—conspiracy and contriving a lottery in the multi-million-dollar Harlem's numbers game—and turned evidence against Hines.

Weinberg's death was officially listed as suicide by the Westchester county medical examiner Dr. Amos O. Squire, who commented on his expertness in placing the gun so that the bullet would fracture the skull and remain within the head.

New Catholic Church for Colored Worshippers Is Completed Here

The little white church just being finished, surmounted by a cross, and located on the northeast corner of Johnson street and Highway 65, overlooking Lincoln Park, in Northwest Suburban Sedalia, will be a center of interest for many on next Sunday, Fezruary 5. It is the new St. Joseph's Catholic Mission for the colored race of Sedalia, wherein Holy Mass will be celebrated for the first time Sunday morning, February 5, at 10 o'clock. This High Mass will be celebrated by the pastor, Rev. E. Gengler, C. PP. S., and the singing will be by the children of the colored school, directed by the teachers, the Sisters of the Most Precious Blood.

The sermon at this Mass will be delivered by the Rev. Father Lionel Pire C. PP. S., of St. Joseph, Mo. Father Pire will remain over in Sedalia for a period of ten days and conduct a course of lectures or sermons explaining the doctrines and practices of the Catholic church. Each evening at 8 o'clock, in the new St. Joseph's church, beginning that Sunday evening and continuing ten days, these lectures or sermons will be delivered and a cordial and earnest invitation is extended to the colored population of Sedalia to attend. A question box will be a feature of this lecture course, wherein written questions pertaining to Catholic doctrines may be submitted. These questions will be answered fully and courteously.

Promoted by Rev. Fr. Daniel

The completion of the new St. Joseph's church for colored Catholics is the realization of the laudable ambition of the Rev. Father Christian Daniel, C. PP. S., pastor of Sacred Heart church of this city. Many years ago, when he first became pastor here, he conceived the idea of building a Catholic church for the colored race of Sedalia. Some twelve years ago he secured the services of Father Constantine Schaaf, pastor of St. Monica's parish for colored Catholics in Kansas City, who conducted a ten day mission or lecture course, in Sedalia for those among the colored population who cared to attend. The attendance was large and much interest was manifested. Since that time, requests that a Catholic center for colored citizens be organized here, have been insistent.

First Pastor Appointed

About four years ago Father Max Herber, C. PP. S., was appointed first pastor of the colored Catholics of Sedalia but after one year he was transferred to the missionary field elsewhere and Father John Nels, C. PP. S., succeeded him as second pastor. When Father Nels was transferred to an eastern city a year and a half ago, the present pastor, Rev. E. Gengler, C. PP. S., was appointed as his successor.

Under the pastorate of Father Gengler the new church has been erected. The present site of St. Joseph's church was purchased in 1937 under the pastorate of Rev. John Nels, C. PP. S. A donation of $1,000 was received from the Catholic Extension Society and the Precious Blood Community with Mother House in Carthagena, Ohio, proposed to furnish funds for the erection of the church and school.

Excavations for building were begun January 18, 1938. Construction was done by hired mechanics and laborers, but the greater part of the interior finishing work was done by generous men who donated their labor and skill.

All Parts Modern

The church, school, class rooms and auditorium are component parts of a composite two story building under one roof. All parts of the building are modern throughout, furnished with the latest improved equipment.

The church which occupies the second or upper floor of the west or long side of the building has a floor space of 62x30 feet and the auditorium or gymnasium which lies directly below the church, on the first floor or basement, has the same floor space with a 15 foot ceiling.

The school which opened September 1, 1938, with an enrollment of 47 pupils occupies the east or el wing of the building and has a floor space sufficient to accommodate 100 pupils, it is equipped with modern conveniences.

The building in its entirety presents a pretty and imposing appearance and is an ornament to the northern part of the city. It is constructed of concrete, yellow pine and heavy oak timbers put together with architectural exactness thus insuring durability and strength. The siding of the building is of white asbestos shingles and the roofing is of the same material colored green.

The Fathers of the Most Precious Blood of Carthagena, Ohio, with Rev. Father E. Gengler as pastor will have charge of this new mission. The Sisters of the Most Precious Blood with mother house at Salem Heights, Dayton, Ohio, have supplied the teaching staff composed of Sisters M. Laurentene and M. La Salette, who make their homes with the Sisters of the Most Precious Blood of Sacred Heart Parish this city.

The pastor, Rev. E. Gengler enters the work with the enthusiasm of a Missioner. He invites every colored person in this vicinity, who is interested to attend the mission sermons to be given every evening in the new church from February 5 to 15 inclusive. Immediately after February 15 classes will be formed for further instructions, joining the 22 high school boys who are now under instructions.

Ewe Flock of E. E. Ferguson Thrives On Barley Pasture

Barley pasture has provided a highly nutritious, palatable, and low-cost winter ration for the ewe flock on the E. E. Ferguson farm this fall and winter.

With the exception of two days, Mr. Ferguson's flock of 28 sheep have been on the barley pasture from October 1 to January 20, and have required no other food. Mr. Ferguson states that they are in good condition for the lambing season.

The flock during this period has consisted of 27 ewes and one ram. Mr. Ferguson estimates the value of pasture for the 28 head of sheep at forty cents a day, or approximately $45.00 for the period from October 1 to January 20. In addition to the sheep, three cows and two horses were on this 20 acre field of barley for a two and one-half month period and four sows for a three month period.

Following lambing, these ewes will receive in addition a grain ration consisting of corn, oats and bran and alfalfa hay. The lambs will be docked and casterated when seven to fourteen days of age, and when the older lambs are about two weeks old will be started on a grain ration consisting of two parts corn, two parts oats, and one part bran. They will be creep fed on this ration up until the time of about six weeks old, when the ration will be changed to corn and alfalfa hay, plus pasture.

Through the use of pasture feeding of grain to the ewes to provide a good milk flow, and creep feeding of the lambs, Mr. Ferguson hopes to get the majority of his lamb crop on the late May and early June market, which over a period of years has proven to be a much better market than the late market.

Another practice which Mr. Ferguson follows which makes it possible to put choice lambs on the late May and early June market is the use of a good, mutton-type, ram. The ewe flock is bred early in the fall so that the lambs will start dropping in late January.

Convict Who Walked Away Again In Custody

ST. JOSEPH, Mo., Jan. 30 (AP)—Sheriff George Moran announced last night the capture of Udell Henry, 33, who walked away from the saw mill at the Missouri Penitentiary Christmas Eve. Henry, arrested at the home of a relative near Gower, had served about six months of a 3-year sentence for chicken theft when he escaped.

Banquet Given At California

W. C. Ploeser The Speaker to G. O. P. Gathering.

More than 200 Republicans rallied for the annual McKinley Day banquet in California, Mo., Friday night. The successful affair was sponsored by an active Moniteau County Republicant Women's Club headed by Mrs. R. R. Conn, who was toastmistress of the occasion.

Walter C. Ploeser, St. Louis, member of the Republican National Program Committee, delivered an address high lighted with suggestions on objectives of The National Republican Party for 1940.

"If I were asked to write the preamble to the Republican Platform for today and 1940, I would say briefly," Mr. Ploeser stated, "that the text of this American document means simply that democracy must be maintained and so conducted that all men may work profitably and enjoyably, to provide for greater opportunity for youth, and greater security for old age."

Walter C. Ploeser

Mr. Ploeser advocated drastic economic liquidation, and a balanced budget, yet allowing provision of adequate relief for the needy until the unemployed are re-employed.

He urged "repeal of the Thomas Amendment which gives the President the power to issue up to three billion of inconvertible money."

He urged repeal of the silver purchase act, the undivided profit tax and stated that in his opinion the farmer could work out his own problems if given a chance.

Mrs. Conn gave an eulogy of William McKinley following the invocation by State Representative Rev. J. L. Freeman. Solos by Mrs. Clyde Elliott of California and Mrs. Stanley Ferguson of Tipton were an added pleasure for the occasion.

V. F. Carpenter, Republican County Chairman of Moniteau County introduced many guests from five surrounding counties, including D. S. Lamm, W. D. Smith, R. M. Battles and L. A. Brill from Pettis County.

The Evangelical Church ladies served a delightful chicken dinner.

Former Sedalians Meet In The East

No Backing Of Other Powers With Force

President Tells Of Plane Sales For the French

Protest On Secrecy Cloaking Meeting

Jubilation In France Over Concessions

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1.—(AP)—A member of the senate military committee said today President Roosevelt had indicated the United States was prepared to sell war materials not only to England and France but to other "independent states" in Europe which oppose the threat of aggression by the dictatorships.

Accounts—some in conflict with others—of what the President said to members of the committee yesterday continued to dribble out to the press and public causing jubilation abroad in the democratic states and condemnation in Germany and Italy.

The military committeeman, who asked anonymity, said Mr. Roosevelt's discussion with the committee of this country's policy of permitting sales of airplanes to France had made it plain the President was committed to a course of allowing other nations to obtain war supplies in this country as long as they could pay cash.

The senator said the conversations had centered on the non-Totalitarian countries, which he said were referred to as "independent states," and had not been confined to England and France.

Conflict of Opinion

One conflict of opinion over what was said concerned how far the President had gone in outlining the foreign policy involved.

One member of the committee said that as he recalled the discussion, the President had said he considered that, in the event of a world war, the frontiers of the United States would be in France.

Two other committeemen denied emphatically, however, the President had said anything of this nature.

Accounts quoting Mr. Roosevelt as saying the United States' frontier was in France were bannered as good news in London and Paris papers. A Berlin daily said the chief executive's meeting with the committee was "without example since the days of the World war," adding "Washington stirs up the people to make business."

The Italian press accused the President of "warmongering pessimism."

France was shown in commerce department today to have purchased less than $1,000,000 of planes and plane parts in 1938. Total exports of military and non-military aircraft—the department did not separate the figures—were $68,000,000.

The principal customers were Netherlands Indies, Japan, China, Argentine, Russia, United Kingdom, Canada, Turkey, Brazil, Mexico, Australia, Hongkong and Sweden, in that order.

As details of the President's unusual conference with the committee yesterday trickled out, his objective in expediting sale of American-made aircraft to France was disclosed to be preservation of world peace through strengthening of democracies.

He was said to have stressed to the senators, however, that any such help would be confined largely to selling planes for cash and under no circumstances would it involve backing of any European nation with force.

With 18 members of the committee gathered in a circle around him, the President was reported to have spoken plainly on the foreign and domestic policies underlying the proffered aid to a French mission in obtaining planes from private manufacturers in this country.

The senators, who went away hungry after an hour's session at lunch time, said Mr. Roosevelt pointed out sales of planes to foreign governments would provide employment and prepare this country for the mass production of aircraft called for in the defense program.

He then was said to have declared the government considered it the wisest policy to aid European democracies to rearm so they could balk threats of war by being prepared for any eventuality.

There were strong indications, however, that the President's explanation of the government's interest in the French mission had not stilled minority criticism of the move within the committee.

Protests On Secrecy

This criticism took the form matter in the soils was also brought out because of the increased nitrogen content, the absorbitive capacity of the soils and the reducing of soil washing.

Soil Conserving

Contouring and terraces were two soil conservation practices which Mr. Klemme recommended very highly. He brought out that every man in the county could easily plant all of his small grains and row crops on the contour and that these practices reduce soil losses 50% and also were effective in moisture conservation. He brought out that contouring involved no expense to the farm operator and that terraces could be built at a very low cost other than labor with the use of a fresno.

Following Mr. Klemme's comment on the value of contouring, Mr. Wilkerson reported that he had planted one field of corn on the contour this year and had excellent results not only from the standpoint of reduced soil losses but also from the standpoint of conservation of moisture which increased his yield of corn.

Following this discussion by Mr. Klemme, farmers who had been successful in carrying out some of the recommended practices were called on to report some of their experiences.

Talk On Feeds

J. C. Longan reported on the farm plan which has been set up on his farm to conserve soil and moisture and at the same time provide adequate feed for livestock needs. He referred particularly to the sweet clover-barley rotation which he has in operation on his farm whereby he harvests a barley crop every other year and uses the second year sweet clover for pasture. It is not necessary in this rotation to plow the ground to seed the barley, as a good seedbed can be prepared with a disk. He brought out that of the 60 acres of small grain seeded on his farm this fall only 15 acres of the land had been plowed and that the best seed bed was prepared on the land which was disked. This 60 acres of small grain was seeded on the contour. He also mentioned the effectiveness in soil and moisture conservation on a field where corn was planted on the contour in 1938.

Edward Hefferman reported his results with planting a field to corn on the contour, buffered stripped with old timothy. This 23-acre field was in timothy in 1937, and in 1938 the corn was planted on the contour with two strips of timothy left across the slope as buffers. He reported that most of the water which fell on the field followed the rows of corn and emptied onto a grass strip. Any dirt which moved from the areas planted to corn was stopped on the strips of timothy.

Olen Monsees, who operates a dairy farm located south of Smithton, reported on the excellent results he has had in the use of supplementary and rotation pastures. On his farm, which consists primarily of flat creek bottom land, he has very little permanent pasture. He follows a system of using small grains for fall, winter and spring pasture and lespedeza for summer pasture. He stated that the lespedeza was used throughout the summer following the harvesting of a small grain crop. On a 20-acre field of barley pasture which was seeded in September, Mr. Monsees secured 75 cattle days per acre between October 1 and December 1.

Bindweed Control

P. S. Read of the Quisenberry community reported on his results in bindweed control work. He reported that a small patch of bindweed was found in his wheat field in May which he staked out and mowed the wheat from this area. After the wheat was harvested on the remainder of the field, Mr. Read burnt off the small area on which the bindweed was found. In the month of September, the bindweed was treated with sodium chlorate at the rate of three pounds per square rod. He reported that from his observations the treatment had been effective in killing a large per cent of the weed this fall.

An increase of 19.9 bushels of barley per acre was secured through the use of 150 pounds of complete fertilizer, according to a report by John M. Sneed. On the strip where no fertilizer was applied, Mr. Sneed reported that in the early spring there was apparently no barley. However, by harvest time, a few scattering plants had showed up and a yield of 2.8 bushels per acre were secured. While in the case of the remainder of the field which was fertilized, a yield of 22.7 bushels of barley was secured. Mr. Sneed reported that a large amount of volunteer wheat showed up in the barley and that the yield as recorded by the machine was 29 bushels per acre as a whole.

Clubs Luncheon Hosts

At noon the delegates lunched at the First M. E. church as guests of the Sedalia Chamber of Commerce, Rotary and Kiwanis clubs. The invocation was given by Rev. Quincy R. Wright. J. L. Rosenthal, president of the Sedalia Chamber of Commerce, acted as toastmaster and gave the address of welcome for the civic organizations. George R. Wilkerson presented the response for the delegates and expressed their appreciation for the cooperation and interest shown by the civic groups in the conference.

The following delegates and guests were introduced following the luncheon: Leon Archias, representing the Kiwanis club; Henry R. Harris, representing the Rotary club; Ellsworth Green, secretary of the chamber of commerce; Charles Green, secretary of the state fair, and Frank B. Van Dyke, chairman of the livestock committee.

Mr. Green announced that the grand champion steer of the Internation would be on exhibit in the coliseum at the state fair grounds from 2 to 4 p. m. on February 7.

Frank B. Van Dyke announced a county-wide livestock meeting to be held in Sedalia starting at 10 a. m., in the assembly room of the court house on Monday, February 6.

J. W. Burch, director of the agricultural extension service of the Missouri College of Agriculture, in his address which followed the noon luncheon brought out that because of Missouri's geographical location, climatic and soil conditions, that it was adapted primarily to a livestock system of farming. Mr. Burch brought out the need of ownership of family sized farms in Missouri. He further emphasized the need of studying the conditions on each individual farm so that the best cropping system possible from the standpoint of conservation of soil and production of farm income could be obtained.

The nominating committee composed of John Sneed, Frank B. Van Dyke and Lee May nominated the present officers to succeed themselves for the coming year. These officers which include Geo. R. Wilkerson, president; M. C. Scott, vice president; George Fichter, secretary and William J. Lamm, secretary, were unanimously reelected.

Mr. Klemme was again introduced and discussed the use of an all-year pasture system on Pettis county farms. The all year pasture system consists of utilizing permanent bluegrass pastures during the spring months, Korean lespedeza during the summer months and fall, small grains during the and early winter, and bluegrass pasture again during the latter part of the winter, and a fall seeded small grain during the early spring.

Mr. Klemme brought out on the prairie soil located at Columbia over a period of years, wheat-Korean pasture when completely pastured out had produced 146 pasture days. In the case of rye-Korean handled in the same manner, 142 pasture days had been secured. In the past two years, records on beef produced on those two pastures were obtained. In the case of the wheat-Korean, 246 pounds of beef were produced per acre; in the case of the rye-Korean, 212 pounds of beef were produced per acre. He compared these results with the results on good permanent bluegrass pasture where 86 cattle days per acre has been secured and a beef return of 121 pounds per acre. Another pasture combination which is being used at the college is an orchard grass-lespedeza combination where 116 days of pasture have been secured and a beef return of 215 pounds per acre.

Hybrid Seed Corn

Mr. Klemme also discussed hybrid seed corn from the work which has been done at the College to date. Mr. Klemme reported that Missouri 8, Missouri 47, and Illinois 960 are apparently the best adapted. He also listed several other hybrids which had been on test one to two years which were apparently worthy of trial.

Following Mr. Klemme's discussion, Judge M. C. Scott; J. A. Muster, representative of the Farm Security Administration and manager of the Osage Farm Project; and Oscar DeWolf, Rural Rehabilitation Supervisor, were introduced and each gave a brief talk.

E. B. Winner, assistant county agent, cutlined briefly the soils and crops and soil conservation work planned for the county for the year 1939.

Obituaries

Funeral of Mrs. F. M. Chaney

Funeral services for Mrs. F. M. Chaney, who passed away at her home in Longwood, Saturday morning, January 28, after a few days' illness of pneumonia, were held at the residence in Longwood, at 10 o'clock Monday morning. The Rev. Herman Taylor, of Miami, Mo., conducted the services, and a quartette composed of Miss Alice Mae Hays, Marshall, Mrs. M. B. Lark, Joseph Alexander and Carl Alexander, sang "The Old Rugged Cross" and "In the Sweet Bye and Bye." Miss Hays sang as a solo "Beautiful Isle of Somewhere." Accompaniments were played by Mrs. Roy Taylor.

Friends who served as pall bearers were, Roy Taylor, Wes Lower, James Harvey, Tom Harvey, William Hoffman and Oliver Stahl.

Mrs. Will Hieronymus, Mrs. Herman Taylor, Mrs. Landis Stroup and Mrs. Will Tevis has charge of the beautiful floral pieces.

Interment was in the Longwood cemetery.

Mrs. Chaney, who before her marriage was Nancy Eliza Owen, was born in Iriquois County, Ill., Seeptember 30, 1867, and was a daughter of James E. and Nancy H. Coblantz Owen. Her mother died at birth and she was reared by her grandparents in Mound Valley, Kas. In early girlhood she united with the Methodist church to which she was devoted, remaining a faithful and consistent member. She was educated for a teacher and taught several terms prior to her marriage to Francis M. Chaney, which took place in Sedalia, December 3, 1888. To this union six children were born, three of whom, Hattie, Hazel and Owen, died when little children.

She is survived by her husband and three children, Mrs. Will Reid, Sweet Springs, Mrs. Joseph Curry, Longwood, and Cecil Chaney, of Clever, Mo., superintendent of schools of that place, and seven grandchildren.

Mrs. Chaney spent most of her married life in and around Longwood where she and her husband used their best influence to develope the business, church and school interest of the community. While Mr. Chaney was postmaster of Longwood she was his able assistant. Her fineness of character was felt among her friends and in the home. Her love of home, family and friends and usefulness and helpfulness to others were lovely traits of her character. December 4, 1938 she and her husband observed their golden wedding anniversary which was a happy occasion.

George L. Newman

George L. Newman, 62 years old, Missouri Pacific Railroad employee, passed away at 8:20 o'clock Wednesday morning at the family home, 521 West Seventh street, following on illness of more than a month. Mr. Newman suffered a stroke last December 25.

He was born at Charitom, Ia., October 9, 1876 and when a small boy moved with his parents to Fort Scott, Kansas.

October 27, 1903 he came to Sedalia and has since made this city his home. Upon coming here he went with the railroad and was in continuous service until his illness.

Surviving him is his widow and two children, a son Charles S. Newman and a daughter, Mrs. Gertrude Bergfelder wife of Frank Bergfelder. Also a sister, Mrs. J. W. Bozeman of Los Angeles, California and a grand daughter, Patty Ann Bergfelder.

Preceeding him in death were his parents, four brothers and two sisters.

He was a member of the B. of R. T. Lodge 637 and also of the O. R. C. Division No. 60.

Funeral of John R. Elwell

The funeral of John R. Eyell, of La Tour, Mo., who passed away Sunday, was held at the Knob Noster cemetery Monday afternoon.

He is survived by four children, and one sister, Mrs. Tom Crew of Warrensburg, three brothers, Vernon Elwell, north of Warrensburg, Otis Elwell, of Sweet Springs and Roy Elwell, north of Knob Noster.

Mrs. Elwell passed away about eleven years ago and a son, Walter was killed by a train in La Monte in 1926.

Michael Edwards

Michael Edwards, 82, Calhoun business man, died there Tuesday afternoon, according to a message received by Earl Leftwich, 1220 South Lamine avenue.

Mr. Edwards had been in the grocery and hardware business for 50 years. He leaves his widow, three sons and several daughters.

Funeral of J. T. Patterson

Funeral services for John T. Patterson, 84 years old, well-known resident of the Houstonia neighborhood, who passed away Monday afternoon at the Bothwell hospital, was held at 2:00 o'clock Wednesday afternoon at the Methodist Episcopal church in Houstonia with the Reverend Sullens, pastor, officiating.

Pall bearers were the following friends: Joe Williams, J. Dorsey, Herman Renken, Oscar Rothrock, Jim Franklin and Ernest De Lapp.

Honorary pall bearers were the following business men: J. D. Eckles, Raymond Wicker, Russel Wicker, Clarence Ramsayer, Mr. Holman, Mr. Cooper, James Staples, Dewey Houchen, Frank Martin, Omer Morris, L. P. Welborn, and Dr. C. L. Parkhurst.

Interment was in the Crown Hill cemetery in Sedalia in the Patterson family lot.

Mr. Patterson was born at Bethefba, Ohio, November 15, 1854, the son of the late J. T. and Mary Burns Patterson. He came to Missouri in March of 1882.

December 14, 1882 he was married to Minerva Orrison and to this union were born two children who passed away in infancy. Mrs. Patterson died in 1886.

Relatives who survive reside in Oklahoma, Ohio and Kansas City.

Three-Car Collision Results In Slight Damage

A three car collision did slight damage to the cars about 9 o'clock Monday night in the 500 block on West Sixteenth.

Helen Bohon driving a Chevrolet coach west on Sixteenth stopped in back of a mail truck driven by James Hall, that was double parked on the north side of the street. A 1939 Oldsmobile sedan driven by Robert Crook belonging to the Independent Cab Company had pulled up behind the Bohon car. I. Magariel driving a 1939 Chevrolet pick-up truck east on Sixteenth collided with the taxi and the cab swung around on the slick pavement and struck the Chevrolet driven by Miss Bohon.

SHERIFF'S SALE
Under Deed of Trust

Because of default in the payment of taxes and indebtedness secured by deed of trust executed by Leo P. Staus and Willa F. Staus, his wife dated April 1, 1924 and recorded in the office of the Recorder of Deeds of Pettis County, Missouri, in Book 301, Page 392, conveying unto Jesse R. Clark, Jr., and The St. Louis Union Trust Company as Trustees.

The Southeast Quarter (SE¼) except ten acres described as follows: Beginning at the Southwest corner of the Southeast Quarter (SE¼) of Section Twenty-two (22), thence north forty (40) rods, thence east twenty (20) rods, thence southeast in a straight line to a point sixty (60) rods east of beginning, thence west to place of beginning, all lying in Township Forty-four (44), Range Twenty-one (21), containing 150 acres in Pettis County, Missouri, the legal holder of the written obligations and claims secured by said deed of trust has declared the whole thereof due and payable in accordance with the terms of said deed of trust, and has, by written instrument duly filed for record, requested me, the undersigned, to foreclose said deed of trust: Therefore, I will in response to said request, made in accordance with the terms and provisions of said deed of trust and under the authority therein provided, sell said real estate at public vendue to the highest bidder, for cash, on Saturday the 25th day of February 1939, between the hours of 9:00 o'clock A. M. and 5:00 o'clock P. M., at the West Front door of the Court House in Sedalia, Pettis County, Missouri to satisfy said indebtedness and the cost of executing this trust, or so much thereof as the proceeds of such sale may be sufficient to pay.

W. L. MARLIN,
Sheriff of Pettis County, Missouri.
First published January 20, 1939.

SHERIFF'S SALE IN PARTITION

By virtue and authority of an order of sale in partition, issued from the office of the clerk of the circuit court of Pettis County, Missouri, dated the 2nd day of December, 1938, and to me directed in favor of Third National Bank, of Sedalia, Missouri, as Trustee of the Daniel I. Wilcox Estate, B. J. Minnier, Flora Elliott, Wynona Elliott, Laura Whiteman, Lillian E. Jared, Stella M. Lower, and Mary Millicent Duly as plaintiffs, and against James J. Donnelly defendant, and it appearing to the court that the plaintiffs are entitled to the relief prayed for in their petition, ordered that the property described in plaintiff's petition be sold by the sheriff of Pettis County, Missouri, as provided by law in such cases. Now, therefore, in order to comply with the terms of said order of sale, I, the undersigned sheriff of Pettis County, Missouri, shall proceed to sell said real estate, so ordered sold, and situated in Pettis County, Missouri, to-wit:

Ellis W. Elden

Ellis W. Elden, a resident of Sedalia since 1908, died at his home, 1706 South Vermont avenue, Sunday night.

Mr. Elden was born in England, County of Kent, March 3, 1850. When eight years of age he had to decide whether to go to an orphans home or make his own living and he chose the latter. He went to work for an elderly woman who owned an Inn, or Tavern, where men stopped for refreshments. He would hold their horses until they came out, and receive a tip of a penny or more. He saved his money, and at the age of 12 came to the United States with about 30 other emigrants from England. He was the only one who paid his own fare, all the others having their fares paid by kinfolks already in the United States.

He landed in New York with just enough money to buy New York clothes. He went to work for a gardener. There he stayed about four year, then went to work for a farmer and stock raiser, with whom he remained 14 years. He became so efficient in his work, showed live stock at different state fairs, in New York, Kentucky, and Illinois, and he attracted the attention of a Mr. Gillet, of Illinois, who was owner of 30,000 acres of land around Lincoln, Ill. After some communication he became the manager of the Gillet farms, where they raised fine cattle and horses.

In 1883 Mr. Elden took a ship load of fat beef cattle of their own over 2000 pounds average to England. He took with him four men to attend the cattle while in transit, and he himself was royally entertained by the captain of the ship, because of the friendship of the Ship captain for Mr. Gillet.

Making the trip he could not help but compare it with his first trip to the United States, and tears came to his eyes. When he arrived in England he was very much surprised to find the high commissioner of imports looking for him, and several men there ready to bid on his cattle. Later he learned Mr. Gillet had sent a cablegram to the high commissioner and they were looking for him. Again he was royally entertained.

Mr. Elden was with the Gillet family for 29 years, and when Mr. Gillet passed away he left a will that provided his land, money and live stock should be equally divided among his eight children. It fell to Mr. Elden to divide the land, money and live stock, some 6000 head, which he did to the satisfaction of all concerned.

In 1908 Mr. and Mrs. Elden came to Sedalia to make their home. They brought property at 1708 South Vermont avenue, where they lived continuously.

Mr. Elden was married to Winnie Armes, of Sedalia in 1888. Mrs. Elden was born and reared in Sedalia and before her marriage was employed at the Perry Music Company. She passed away December 16, 1932. They have no children.

She was a kind mother and besides her husband and the son named has ten other children surviving her.

Treatment For Bots Given In County

Five hundred head of horses, mules, and colts have been treated to date in the Pettis County Bot Control Campaign, according to reports from local veterinarians states J. U. Morris, county extension agent.

The campaign is being carried out through the cooperation of local leaders and veterinarians and the Extension Service with a goal of 2,000 horses treated by the last of February.

Local leaders in the various communities are assisting in assembling the horses in groups of ten or more for treatment.

The carbon disulphide treatment, which the local veterinarians are using is very effective. When properly administered, results show that 95 to 100 per cent of the bots and 60 to 65 per cent of the roundworms are removed.

Some of the results secured when the horses are properly botted are:

1. Less feed is required during the winter months.
2. In better condition for spring work.
3. Stand the summer heat better.
4. Have fewer cases of acute colic.
5. Less annoyed by bot flies during the summer.
6. In better condition and less subject to sickness, including sleeping sickness.

According to Mr. Morris, farmers who have not had their horses botted should do so not later than February 28 for treatment to be more effective.

The president appointed her project leaders to work with her this year. The club voted to have Sunshine Pals this year and drew names for same. A Brain Teasing stunt was put on by Leader Mrs. Arnest.

Twenty members were present and two visitors.

Stark Delivers Jobless Check

JEFFERSON CITY, Jan. 30—(AP)—Gov. Lloyd C. Stark personally delivered Missouri's first unemployment compensation payment today—a check for $13.65 to Robert Skibicki, 49-year-old unemployed construction helper of Jefferson City.

Skibicki is one of about 22,000 jobless Missourians who this week will receive almost $160,000 in benefits provided by the Missouri unemployment compensation law which became operative January 2.

All other checks will be deliverby by mail. But Stark himself inaugurated the payments by handing Skibicki's check to him in the governor's office.

"The first thing I want to do with this money is to help pay the cost of keeping my children," said Skibicki, whose wife died a month ago and whose three children are now in the Hessoun orphanage at Fenton.

Skibicki was regularly employed as a carpenter's helper for a construction firm until he was laid off November 30 "because of lack of work." He is entitled to $13.65 each week until he has drawn his year's quota of $108.02—or until the state employment service has found him another job.

Snow Welcome By The Farmers

A three and one-half inch snow fell in Sedalia Sunday night, adding moisture, most welcome to the farmers, to a ground that had soaked up about .4 of an inch of rain during the day Sunday.

The low temperature Sunday was 37 degrees above zero and the high 42. It dropped to 26 Sunday night and at seven o'clock this morning registered 27 degrees.

The rain and snow helped to bring to almost normal the required amount of moisture for this county, which had been below normal. The rain Sunday fell slowly and steadily, and fell on soil that soaked it in. The snow likewise soaked into the ground as it melted. It will help the pastures and small grain, wheat and barley.

Some of the side roads in the county were blocked this morning, but it is believed for only a short time, as the sun was shining brightly by the middle of the morning.

In a checkup of farmers over the county, to learn who would be able to attend the Clover and Prosperity conference here Tuesday it was found that the greatest amount of snow was in the north and east.

Reverse Decision In Suit Over Child

The Kansas City court of appeals reversed a decision of the Pettis county circuit court, in the case of John F. Martin, of Michigan, seeking to retain the custody of his daughter, Margaret, aged 12, or to keep her with her mother, Mrs. Sarah Simms, of California, which case was tried in circuit court here in November, 1937.

The Pettis county circuit court decided in favor of the child's mother, now Mrs. Edward Wade, of Chicago, who was seeking her custody.

The case was in this county because the mother and father had obtained their divorce here some years ago, and the decision as to the child's custody was made here. The procedure in 1937 was therefore just a reopening of the former case.

The child had been with her father, and father's mother, and her own mother, who stated she was then in a position to care for her daughter, showed moving pictures in the court room of her home, to prove that it was the proper kind of a home for a child.

Frank W. Hayes, of this city and Ed Pugh, Kansas City represented Mr. Martin, and James P. Quinn, Kansas City, and Lamm and Barnett the mother.

Capt. Hansman Talks On Armory

Members of the Sedalia Rotary club, meeting at Hotel Bothwell at noon Monday, heard an interesting talk by Capt. Eugene Hansman on a proposed armory for Sedalia, which would be an armory and civic auditorium combined.

Jack McLaughlin, club president, presided and introduced the following guests, Rotarian George A. Hearn, Warrensburg, E. T. Thompson, guest of Dr. J. E. Cannaday, F. N. Henry, manager of the Unemployment Bureau, guest of Dr. L. S. Geiger, H. S. Hogan, Kansas City, guest of Hugo Sparn.

Mr. McLaughlin announced the opening of an attendance contest, where the club is divided into four teams and the results are kept similar to bowling scores.

A. A. Chambers, program chairman for January, introduced Captain Hansman.

Mrs. Schappler Is Recovering From Injuries

Mrs. R. C. Schappler, 1927 Hazeltine Drive, Jefferson City, who is a frequent visitor to Sedalia and has numerous friends here, is suffering from injuries received Sunday, January 15, in an automobile accident which occurred about a mile and a half from Jefferson City. Mrs. Schappler, was taken to St. Mary's hospital where an examination disclosed the sixth vertebra of her neck broken. It has been in a brace, and will probably be for some time, but she has improved sufficiently to be removed to her home Monday.

Mr. Schappler, who with another couple was in the car, also received only minor bruises.

Warning Given On Interference

Deplores Failure For Return of Some Colonies

BERLIN, Jan. 30.—Adolph Hitler today warned Western powers against interfering 'in matters concerning us alone with the purpose of preventing natural and sensible solutions."

Assails Bolshevism

BERLIN, Jan. 30.—Adoplh Hitler today launched a bitter attack on Bolshevism and pointed to the success of insurgents in Spain as "another valient defeat of the newest universal attempt to destroy the European cultured world."

He started speaking promptly at 8 p. m. (1 p. m. C. S. T.) in an address to the greater German Reichstag celebrating the sixth anniversary of Nazi rule.

His address was expected to indicate how next he intends to use his power.

The Fuehrer declared before Germany's greatest Reichstag that if the Reich in 1933 had sunk into Bolshevik chaos, the whole western world would have been submerged in a crisis of dimensions surpassing human imagination.

'Only the most narrow minded islanders can imagine to themselves that the red pest would have halted before the sanctity of democratic ideas or at the frontiers of disinterested states," he said.

He continued:

"With Mussolini the salvation Europe began at one end. National socialism continued this work of salvation at the other end and in these days we are witnessing in another country the same spectacle: The valiant defeat of the newest universal attempt to destroy European cultured world."

Hitler's reference was to Spain. "On January 30, 1933, I entered the Wilhelmstrasse filled with deepest anxiety about the future of my country.

'Today, six years later, I am able to speak to the first Reichstag of greater Germany.

"Indeed, we — more perhaps than another generation — may gauge the devotional sense of the pronouncement—'What a change by Gods' dispensation—six years suffice to fulfill the dreams of centuries, one year to give our people the joy of that unity which many generations longed for in vain."

Reviews Successes

Brown shirt storm troopers and black shirt elite guardsmen lined his way to the Kroll opera house. At intervening minutes between arrival and the speech sufficied for Field Marshal Goering to be elected president of the Reichstag. On the way Hitler stood in his open car between cheering thousands

Hitler received his momentous foreign successes of last year which brought Austria and the Sudetenland of Czechoslovakia into greater Germany and increased the size of this Reichstag

Referring to Woodrow Wilson's fourteen points, Hitler said, 'among them was the elementary sentence about the self-determination of nations.

As a matter of fact the Allies of that time (the world war) during the period which followed applied this principle when it could be taken advantage of for their egoistic purposes

"Thus the return of her colonial possessions is denied to Germany on the assertion that one cannot simply return the natives there—about whom, of course, nobody had cared in 1918—to Germany against their will.

"However, while thus posing as protectors of primitive Negro tribes in the name of self-determination, the highly cultivated German people in 1918 were denied the general human right solemnly promised to them.

"The clause on revision in the League of Nations constitution assumed only a platonic meaning."

Sedalian In Cast

Peace Hope In Europe Still Being Voiced

Diplomats Feel Avoidance Of War Brighter

By LOUIS P. LOCHNER

BERLIN, Jan. 31.—(AP)—Diplomats saw hope today for peace in Europe the assurance of Adolf Hitler that there would be no cause for war in his pursuit of the great Nazi objective, return of war lost colonies.

They were not sure, however, of the full meaning of the Chancellor's firm promise of aid to Italy if she were warred against in an ideological war and his declaration:

"National Socialist Germany and Fascist Italy are strong enough to safeguard peace against everyone; and to end resolutely and successfully any conflict which irresponsible elements lightly start."

The German foreign office showed satisfaction at the reception given Hitler's declarations, which one government spokesman said opened the way "for further international discussion along peace lines."

Officials, meanwhile, awaited eagerly Prime Minister Chamberlain's official reaction which was expected to be given in the house of commons this afternoon.

Chartering the course of Nazidom for 1939 in a two hour and 17 minute speech before the Reichstag last night, the Chancellor declared his own belief in a "long peace." It was disclosed this was inserted in one of the last minute changes Hitler made before delivering the speech.

He set increasing world trade, to include Latin American countries as a pressing need to bolster German economy while the campaign for colonies is carried on, and advised the United States not to interfere.

Looks To Negotiation

Devoting much of the address starting his seventh year in power to the economic need for Germanys 80,000,000 people, the chancellor hinted that the colonial issue would be handled by negotiation.

"Germany has no territorial demands against England and France apart from that for the return of our colonies," he said.

"While the solution of this question would contribute greatly to the pacification of the world, it is in no sense a problem which could cause a war."

He did not mention the Italian agitation for colonial concessions from France.

But he insisted Italian-German friendship "can only serve the cause of peace if it is quite clearly understood that a war of rival ideologies waged against the Italy of today will, once it is launched, and regardless of its motives, call Germany to the side of her friend."

Hitler blamed Jews, Bolshevists, and unfriendly political and financial interests in other countries, including the United States, for war propaganda. He criticized among others Secretary Ickes of the United States.

The Jewish question Hitler continued, should be solved and "the sooner the better," for Europe "cannot settle down until the Jewish question is cleared up."

Should "international Jewish financiers," he prophesied, "succeed in plunging the nations once more into a world war, then the result will not be the bolshevization of the earth, and thus the victory of Jewry, but the annihiliation of the Jewish race in Europe."

Notable to those who saw stronger hopes for peace in the chancellor's words was that the only direct demands advanced were for colonies, which Hitler said were taken after the war despite the promises of President Wilson upon which Germany sued for peace.

"The German people," he declared, "has exactly the same right as any other people to share in the opening up and development of the world."

And:

"A nation of 80 millions will not be willing permanently to be assessed differently from other nations . . ."

Nothing was said about the Ukraine Memel or Danzig—in all of which Nazis in the past have expressed interest.

If Germany had any concrete plans for Spain, he said nothing about them, avowing it was "anxiety for European culture" which compelled Germany to take sides in Spain against the bolshevist destroyers . . ."

Special mention went to Japan as champion of the anti-comintern pact: a nation which "in the last two years has set up so many examples of glorious heroism, is undoubtedly fighting in the service of civilization at the other side of the world."

Hitler did not mention President Roosevelt, frequently criticized in the German press, but he did attack Secretary of the Interior Ickes and the former British foreign secretary, Anthony Eden, and Alfred Duff Cooper, who quit as first lord of the admiralty in protest against the Munich Czecho-Slovak pact.

"Against such agitators," Hitler said, the German press will reply "to bring home to the German people in good time the truth about these men.

Accidental Deaths In 1938 Reduced By 10,200 Total

CHICAGO, Jan. 31.—(AP)—The National Safety Council announced today the nation's accidental deaths were reduced by 10,200 in 1938, the greatest improvement ever recorded in a single year.

Last year's fatalities totaled 95,000, the council made known. The lowest aggregate since 1933 and a 10 percent decline from the 1937 figure of 105,205. The greatest previous decrease was in 1919 when the total was 9,600 below the figure for 1918.

The safety experts also disclosed 700,000 fewer persons were disabled by injuries in 1938 than in 1937, and the economic loss from accidental deaths and injuries was cut by $400,000,000. Last year's disabling injuries totaled 9,200,000, and the economic loss was $3,200,000,000.

The council said the improvement was general in every classification of accidents except domestic. For the first time in 10 years, accidental deaths in the home exceeded the number of traffic fatalities.

Except for 1932 and 1933, last year's accidental death rate of 73 for 100,000 population was the lowest since 1922, and only six years, the council reported, had lower rates since national records first became available in 1900. Those years were 1919, 1920, 1921, 1922, 1932 and 1933.

The chief factor in the country's exceptional showing was a 19 percent reduction in traffic deaths, a saving of 7,640 lives, and a drop from 39,643 in 1937 to 32,000 in 1938.

Occupational fatalities fell from 19,000 in 1937 to 17,000 in 1938, a reduction of 11 percent. Deaths in public accidents not involving motor vehicles declined eight percen, from 18,000 in 1937 to 16,500 last year.

In the home, however, accidents increased two percent, from 32,000 in 1937 to 32,500 in 1938, outrunning the national traffic toll by 500.

"The traffic death decline was not due to less travel," the safety council said, "for motor vehicle mileage was as great in 1938 as the year before. The decline in occupational accidents probably was due in part to reduced employment, but the precise extent of this factor is not known.

"As usual, the effect of major disasters on the year's accident toll was unimportant."

Predicts That Wagner Act Be Revised

Committees In Congress Busy On Aviation

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31—(AP)—A confident prediction congress would revise the Wagner labor relations act came today from Senator Burke (D-Neb) as the senate labor committee took up modifications proposed by Senator Walsh (D-Mass).

"I think the country is in a frame of mind to insist upon amendments this session," said Burke, frequent critic of the act and the board that administers it.

Chairman Thomas (D-Utah) of the labor committee, on the other hand, announced opposition to any amendments "that will interfere with the proper workings of the law."

With the senate in recess and the house marking time, the day's activities on Capitol hill were concentrated in committees.

The house interstate commerce committee resumed a study of general transportation legislation, while the ways and means committee was considering President Roosevelt's reciprocal tax proposals.

A subcommittee brought before the house judiciary committee its suggestions for handling impeachment charges against Secretary Perkins by Rep. Thomas (R-NJ).

The house rules committee studied a measure to continue the Dies committee which investigated un-American activities.

The house naval committee, on the insistence of Republican members, called Charles Edison, assistant secretary of the navy, to explain how far the government plans to go toward fortifying Guam.

The house and senate military committees also were busy with military aviation problems. The senate committee had a discussion yesterday with G. Grant Mason of the civil areonautics authority in which Mason was reported to have said:

1. The United States is far behind Germany in military aviation research, and that this country should catch up.

2. The United States failed to increase airplane sales to Latin America last year, while Germany and Italy trebled theirs.

The senate labor committee, in considering amendments to the Wagner act, was getting into one of the major problems facing this session of congress.

The Walsh amendments were those sponsored by the American Federation of Labor, which has criticized labor board decisions as being partial to the CIO.

Senator Walsh said the nine proposed changes would "guarantee fair and equitable administration of the law by the labor relations board."

President William Green of the AFL said the amendments would strengthen "the fundamental purposes of the act by preventing arbitrary abuses of discretionary power by the board which have aroused the resentment of the entire nation."
